30 Men Buried In Nordegg Mine

Explosion in the Brazeau Collieries Ltd. coal mine at Nordegg, in which 30 men are feared to have perished, was reported to the provincial mines branch Friday and officials were rushing to the scene to investigate.

The explosion occurred about 10 a.m. Friday.

On long distance telephone shortly before 2 p.m. it was learned that the mine rescue team was believed to have reached the bodies of some of the men. A number of lives are feared lost.

The explosion was reported to have occurred deep in the mine about a mile from the entrance. The mine's rescue team, captained by Hugh Williams, was leading rescue operations. Every man in the town and at the mine was assisting.

It was not definitely ascertained what men were in the mine.

Chief Inspector of Mines A. A. Millar and other officials were leaving Edmonton Friday afternoon with equipment for use in rescue operations although it is feared a number of the men may be dead.

Extent of the explosion was not known by officials here as only a bare report of the accident was wired by John Shanks, general manager of the mine.

Some 400 men are employed in the mine, it is believed.

Dr. E. A. Braithwaite, chief coroner, who left Friday for Lacombe to attend an inquest into the deaths of three young men in a highway accident, may proceed to Nordegg to investigate the mine accident.

Supt. John Bird of the Edmonton R.C.M.P. reported Friday afternoon that police from the Red Deer and Nordegg detachments were investigating the explosion.

U.S. Destroyer Sunk

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—(AP)—The United States destroyer Reuben James was torpedoed and sunk west of Iceland last night, the first American warship lost since the war began, and President Roosevelt crisply told a press conference the attack would not change United States policy.

The hours passed with no news of the fate of the men aboard, while in London an authoritative British spokesman took the view that Germany had declared "indiscriminate submarine warfare against the United States."

The navy said it would not release a list of officers and men on the destroyer until information regarding their fate had been obtained, saying this might take two or three days or longer.

Ordinarily the Reuben James carried six officers and 114 men. The 21-year-old destroyer was on convoy duty, the navy said, and Mr. Roosevelt, in his discussion of policy, noted the specific fact that she was carrying out a duty assigned to her.

"NO WONDER," SAY NAZIS

In Berlin an authorized source said that if the destroyer was participating in a convoy "it was no wonder that she was torpedoed."

Replying to a reporter's question, the President said he had not thought about the possibility of cutting off relations with Germany. Rep. Emanuel Celler (Dem., New York) introduced such a proposal in the House of Representatives yesterday.

Unlike the destroyer Kearny, which survived a torpedo blow amidship Oct. 17, but lost 11 men, with 10 others being wounded, the older Reuben James went to the bottom. The navy said she was convoying in the north Atlantic.

IS FIRST SINKING

The Reuben James was the third American warship fired at, the second to be hit and the first to be sunk since President Roosevelt ordered the navy last month to "shoot on sight" any Axis warcraft encountered.

Whether the Reuben James or any accompanying ships were able to wreak any damage was undisclosed. Navy Secretary Knox said this week that the navy probably would not disclose any submarine sinkings by the fleet, following the British policy of disturbing Axis morale by such secrecy.

Whether it was a submarine, a surface vessel or a torpedo-carrying airplane which brought the Reuben James to its doom was not disclosed immediately.

The Reuben James was described at the navy as an O-type flush deck destroyer said to be similar to the type traded to Great Britain.

NAVY'S STATEMENT

The navy issued the following statement:

"The navy department announced that the U.S. destroyer Reuben James was sunk by a torpedo during the night of Oct. 30-31 while convoying in the North Atlantic, west of Iceland.

"The commanding officer is Lt.-Cmdr. H. L. Edwards, U.S. navy.

"No further details are available at this time but will be released when received."

The navy described this vessel as 314 feet long with a beam of 30 feet. Her displacement was 1,190 tons.

Her normal crew was 120 men—six officers and 114 enlisted men.

Commissioned Sept. 24, 1920, the vessel was built by the New York Shipbuilding Company and carried four four-inch naval guns and an anti-aircraft battery.

THIRD FIRED ON

She was the third American warship to be fired at and the second to be hit by a torpedo since President Roosevelt ordered the navy last month to pursue a policy of "shoot on sight" in taking all steps necessary to protect munitions shipments from the United States to Britain.

American Army Moves Into East Aircraft Plant

BENDIX, N.J., Oct. 31—(AP)—The United States army took over operation of the plant of Air Associates, Inc., today with 2,100 soldiers on guard after President Roosevelt said a labor dispute threatened to halt production.

The troops were ordered to the plant by War Secretary Stimson under instruction of the President who issued an executive order last night directing the army to take over. Air Associates has $5,000,000 in defence orders for aviation equipment.

Reuben James Sinking Stated Hastening War

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—(AP)—The sinking of the destroyer Reuben James brought congressional expressions today that the incident would lead the United States closer to an all-out war with Germany and would hasten senate action on legislation revising the Neutrality Act.

One opponent of administration foreign policy, Senator Guy Gillette (Dem., Iowa) told reporters "America will protect her seamen, no matter what mission they are on."

Remarking the navy had announced the Reuben James was on convoy duty west of Iceland when a torpedo sent it to the bottom, Gillette added that "it does not matter how unwise may have been the ves-

Britain Buys Huge Quantity Canadian Wheat

By B. T. RICHARDSON
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Oct. 31.—The British government has just purchased 150,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat, it is reported here, making one of the biggest single transactions in the history of world wheat trade.

An official announcement is expected shortly, but the price will not be disclosed. This is in line with previous wheat transactions between the Canadian Wheat Board and the British ministry of food. The price is understood to be between 85 and 90 cents a bushel.

Like previous big wheat deals with the United Kingdom, the new order will enable the Canadian government to achieve its estimate made last winter that wheat exports in this crop year would amount to 230,000,000 bushels. Orders from the British food ministry are for future delivery.

Some of this wheat will probably go to Russia, since the fact that Canadian wheat was going forward from Britain was disclosed in Ottawa.

The question of payment for wheat obtained from Canada is mixed up with the wider problem of financing British purchases in this country, and the wheat order may be regarded as part of the $900,000,000 credit being extended by Canada to Britain this year for essential supplies. With Russia in the picture, Canada is in effect financing wheat not only for Britain, but also indirectly for Russia.

Previous big wheat orders included one for 50,000,000 bushels in June, 1940, and another for 120,000,000 bushels announced May 13, 1941, for delivery before May, 1942. The first order has probably been shipped long ago, and the second may be virtually cleaned up, since another big order has been arranged.

Ferry Pilot Says U.S. Aircraft Best

miles from Bermuda to England, considered "American aircraft are the best in the world."

"I hate to admit it because I am English-born, but the United States airplanes are the best in the world," he said. Lewis spent last winter ferrying Consolidateds from Bermuda to Britain. On the second flight they attacked two U-boats, one in the middle of the Atlantic 1,000 miles off the American coast, the other 600 miles from Ireland.

"I can't divulge the results, but they were not disappointing," he grinned.

20 Killed When American Plane Crashes In East

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Oct. 31.—(CP)—Twenty persons were killed last night when an American airlines transport plunged into a farm field 14 miles west of St. Thomas and burst into flames.

There were no survivors of the worst air disaster in Canada as the sweeping fire made rescue attempts impossible.

Seventeen of those killed were passengers; three made up the crew. All were from the United States.

The transport was on its regular Buffalo-Detroit flight. Rain was falling and visibility was poor as the plane sped westward over Lawrence station.

It had reported to Buffalo at 11:11, E.D.T. (8:11, M.S.T.), that it was over Jarvis.

A few minutes later it began swinging about in huge circles three miles in circumference. It dropped lower and lower. Suddenly there was a bright flash of light that eye-witnesses took to be a flare set off by the pilot in an attempt to find a landing place.

The plane moved closer to the ground, shot quickly upwards and then just as suddenly crashed. There was a great explosion as the

Urge Advertisers To Support Press

TORONTO, Oct. 31. — (CP) — Newspapers and publications "which play so important a part in sustaining public morale" should be given the maximum support by advertisers, A. M. Miller, director of advertising for the Chrysler Corporation of Canada, said Thursday.

"It is not hard to imagine that after a period of post-war adjustment the world will enter into the greatest era of advancement in its history," Mr. Miller told the Association of Canadian Advertisers in session here. "A devastated Europe will be rebuilt, 400,000,000 Chinese who will share our victory, and who will have learned to govern themselves in a new way, will take a more constructive place in the new world."

B. W. Keightley, advertising manager of Canadian Industries, Limited, Montreal, urged continued advertising throughout the war. He recalled that during the First Great War many Canadian firms whose production was turned over wholly to munitions, did not advertise with the result they found themselves forgotten at the end of hostilities.

Moscow Attack Now Easing Up

By The Canadian Press

The pressure on Moscow was reported today by the Soviet news agency, Tass, to have eased up everywhere on the front except on the northwest flank, where a strong tank and infantry offensive was continued by the Germans.

Tass said the Nazi offensive in other regions was confined to attacks by small detachments. Even on the northwest flank the news agency said the Red army repeatedly counter-attacked and checked the German drive.

Soviet workers fought alongside Red army troops today in a bloody series of battles around Tula, 100 miles south of Moscow, as the Germans stepped up the fury of their 30-day drive on the Soviet capital from two directions.

Tass, the Russian news agency, said tank-led Nazi forces were driving hard on Moscow's northwest flank—apparently in the Kalinin sector, 95 miles northwest of the capital—but that heavy artillery fire and repeated Red counter-attacks were checking the German advance.

To the west and southwest of Moscow, Tass reported that Soviet troops were not only holding their defence positions but improving them in some salients.

On the southern (Ukraine) front, Hitler's high command claimed that the Russians were in full flight under the assault of German and Rumanian troops smashing into the Crimea peninsula.

Apparently heading for Russia's big Black Sea naval base of Sevastopol, 100 miles across the Crimea, German flame-throwers, tanks and OTTAWA, Oct. 31—(CP)—Extension of the training period for pilots under the British commonwealth air training plan, from 24 to 28 weeks, was announced by Royal Canadian Air Force headquarters today. The change is effective with the classes now under instruction.

Initial training school instruction is increased from seven to eight weeks; elementary flying training school from seven to eight weeks; and service flying training school from 10 to 12 weeks.

Today's War Moves

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE
Copyright, 1941, by British United Press

THE German final pre-winter assault on Moscow is still at the peak of its fury but the Nazi forces are no closer to the Soviet capital than they said they were three weeks ago.

At that time, the Germans placed their forces within 37 miles of Moscow and jubilantly proclaimed that Russian resistance was crumbling. A study of statements by both sides in the last few days indicates that only at one point, on the Nara river southwest of Moscow, are the Germans within as much as 40 miles from the city. The Russians have dug in there and apparently are holding.

The latest German threat, near Tula, is 100 miles south of Moscow.

The lack of German progress increases the possibility that Moscow will hold. If it does until this attack has spent its full force, which it inevitably must, the chances are that Moscow is safe for the winter.

The mud and rain of early winter has proved an important factor in impeding the German advance. When the big freeze and the deep snows come, it seems improbable that the Germans will be able to organize another major assault on the scale of this one. They probably would have to fall back to Smolensk to establish winter headquarters.

Such an outcome would be a defeat for a very clever piece of

Says Hitler Would Welcome Invasion

British United Press

An informed American naval critic, retired Rear Admiral Yates Stirling, believes a British attempt to invade the European continent would play into Nazi hands.

Stirling points out that Britain doesn't have the resources to conduct a military campaign on the continent. He declares that England's main job is to keep empire life-lines open—despite popular pressure for a new land front.

The naval critic says full control of the seas is necessary for Britain to keep her empire alive.

Stirling suggests that German propaganda is behind the clamor for Britain to invade the continent. As he puts it: "Hitler would welcome such a move, for it would bring the mountain to Mohammed."

Taggart Made Dominion Food Administrator

OTTAWA, Oct. 31—(CP)—Appointment of Hon. J. G. Taggart, of Regina, as food administrator, and Roy Beverley Whitehead, K.C., of Toronto, chairman of the Ontario Securities Commission, as deputy administrator of retail trade, was announced today by the wartime prices and trade board.

A simultaneous announcement said Harold M. CONTROLS SUPPLY, PRICES

Mr. Taggart, minister of agriculture for Saskatchewan, will be responsible, as food administrator under the wartime prices and trade board, for the organization of supply and the control of prices of all foods except sugar and flour, the board said.

Sugar remains under the sugar controller and flour is under the flour and feeds administrator.

It was assumed Mr. Taggart would continue as chairman of the Canadian Bacon Board.

Britain Debating War On Finland

British United Press

It is reported in London that Russia has called for a British declaration of war on Finland, Hungary and Rumania. Foreign diplomats in the British capital understand that the cabinet has taken the request under advisement. However, neither British nor Russian quarters will comment.

Russia has pointed out that it would be psychologically important for Britain to terminate her purely technical peaceful relations with three of the Soviet's enemies.

80,000 Serbs Fighting Axis As French Prote st Nazi Executions

British United Press

An estimated 80,000 Yugoslavs in the Serbian mountains are warring fiercely against the Axis. A spokesman of the Yugoslav government in London said today they have killed hundreds of occupation troops; disrupted important German communication lines to Russia, and sabotaged vital mines near the Rumanian border.

The force is said to be well-disciplined. Its leaders are former Yugoslav army officers. The spokesman claims that the situation is so serious that German troops have been rushed to relieve Italian units.

His report came as the British await the first major test of their V-for-victory campaign on the continent, the silent protest pause which took place in France today.

British and Free French leaders had called on all Frenchmen to stage a five-minute standstill strike against Nazi executions of hostages.

They looked for the possible response to indicate what may be expected on the day—when and if it comes—that a general European uprising is called against the Nazis. As a move to check V-for-victory organizing, Vichy has ordered drastic new punishments for anyone found listening to foreign broadcasts.

LONDON, Oct. 31. — (CP)— Gen. De Gaulle, leader of Free France, and his staff stood silently in Free French headquarters for five minutes at 4 p.m. (8 a.m. M.S.T.) today.

Frenchmen on the continent had been asked to pause at the same hour (local time) in protest to the German shooting of French hostages.

VICHY, Oct. 31 — (AP) — The population of Vichy, capital of the Petain regime, "virtually" ignored the Free French request for a five-minute standstill strike today in protest against the German execution of hostages.

The ministry of the interior gave out a story that it had made a

NEW DETAILS OF 'COLLABORATION'
France Offered Separate Peace By Nazis For Division Of Africa

This is an article concerning hitherto unreported details of Franco-German "collaboration" one year after the meeting of Adolf Hitler and Marshal Henri Philippe Petain at Montoire. —EDITOR.

By HARRISON SALISBURY
British United Press Correspondent

Germany, the British United Press was advised by competent sources in Europe today, has offered France a separate peace before the end of the war if she will agree to divide Africa into three spheres — German, Italian and French—completely eliminating Britain and Belgium from the continent.

The plan has been worked out in full detail in Berlin, it was reported, and has been the subject of extensive negotiation with the Vichy regime.

Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, however, was reported against the German proposal. Petain repeatedly has placed himself on record against the sacrifice by France of any more of her empire. He has rebuffed—at least for the time being—German proposals for the removal of Gen. Maxime Weygand as French commander in chief for Africa.

HERE'S NAZI SCHEME

The German plan for the division of Africa calls for this disposition of territory, it was said:

Germany: The bulk of southern and central Africa, including British East Africa; British Sudan, Rhodesia, British Southwest Africa, French Congo to Lake Tohad French Togo and Damohey; Belgian Congo; probably French Madagascar.

Italy: Libya, Ethiopia, French Somaliland; Tunisia; Italian Eritrea; Italian Somaliland

France: Most of northwest Africa down to the Equator including Algeria, most of French Morocco and, as compensation for her cessions to the Axis, the British colonies of Gambia, Sierra Leone, the Gold Coast and Nigeria.

Spain: Her present possessions in northwest Africa, plus a slice of French Morocco.

Portugal: Her present possession of Portuguese Guinea, Angola and Mozambique.

Egypt: To obtain nominal independence under a regime friendly to the Axis.

Union of South Africa: To be nominally independent under a pro-Axis Boer regime.

PETAIN FEARS WAR

It was understood Germany and Italy have agreed on the plan for carving up Africa and are seeking vigorously to obtain Vichy's consent, offering the prospect of a separate peace as an inducement.

Petain, however, is reported convinced that any arrangement of this kind, particularly one involving the "transfer" to France of British African possessions still firmly in British control would automatically bring France back into the war on Germany's side.

It was said he already has put his foot down on one colonial arrangement which had been agreed to by Vice-Premier Admiral Jean Francois Darlan.

This was an arrangement which Darlan negotiated last June to allow Axis military forces to send supplies and troops at Bizerte in French Tunisia, and move them overland into Libya. This would shorten the water passage from Italy and decrease the dangers of attack by British submarines, light naval craft and planes.

Petain refused to accept the arrangement. It was understood the Germans, though angered at his refusal, took no reprisals at that time due to their preoccupation with the Russian campaign.

Bevin Is Seeking "Lost Legion" Of Cotton Workers

LONDON, Oct. 31.—(CP)—The British Broadcasting Corporation said Thursday night Labor Minister Ernest Bevin has appealed to the "lost legion" of women cotton operators in Britain to return to the mills.

Mr. Bevin said munitions factories had employed 40,000 of these women but there were still 8,000 who had not sought re-employment.

He said he has the power to compel their return but believes they will sign on voluntarily.

Torpedo Sinks U.S. Destroyer On Convoy Duty

First target of a dive-type ships in the North Atlantic was the destroyer Greer, one of the old type ships, 50 of which were traded to Britain a year ago.

Two torpedoes were fired at the Greer on Sept. 4 by a German submarine. Both went wild.

Two weeks ago today, Oct. 17, the destroyer Kearny, engaged in a night battle against a German submarine Wolfpack which had attacked a convoy southwest of Iceland, was hit amidships by a torpedo and 11 American seamen were killed and 10 wounded.

The Kearny, a much larger vessel than the Reuben James, had a displacement of 1,630 tons and carried a crew of about 190 officers and men.

She was of much sturdier construction than the Reuben James, having been completed and put into service last year.

Unlike older types the Kearny had a hull protected by the latest armor and divided into watertight compartments. As a result of this construction, the navy department said only two days ago, which included the Kearny to remain afloat after suffering an explosion sufficient to have wrecked any destroyer previously so badly damaged.

Cmdr. Edwards assumed command of the Reuben James April 6, 1940.

The fact that the scant information first available on the sinking was not quickly amplified indicated the convoy which the Reuben James was escorting was still on its way to Iceland and was being silenced in order to avoid giving away ship's positions.

Naval officials said they had no information as to when further details might be available, but it was recalled that in the case of the torpedoing of the Kearny several days elapsed before the information came in that the Kearny had suffered a loss of 11 lives. In that case the crippled Kearny itself was trying to reach a friendly port.

troops supported by strong aerial attacks were reported to have broken through the Crimea's bottleneck gates for two days ago.

Soviet dispatches gave no hint of a precipitate retreat, declaring that Red army troops and marines were counter-attacking fiercely, aided by planes of the Russian Black Sea fleet.

Dispatches from Kuibyshev, auxiliary Soviet capital, said all Crimean men capable of bearing arms were being mustered to stem the Nazi onslaught.

CRIMEA STRATEGIC

The Crimea is strategically important both as controlling the northern waters of the Black sea and as providing a short-cut route to the Caucasus oil fields across the narrow Kerch strait.

On the Moscow front, the Germans were hammering violently at Soviet Gen. Gregory Zhukov's Red army defenders from the Tula sector to the south and the Volokolamsk region, 65 miles northwest of the capital.

"Sanguinary battles are being waged for every town and village at the approaches to Tula," a Soviet war bulletin said.

"All attacks by the German Fascist troops on our positions were beaten off with heavy losses to the enemy."

Military advices reaching London, however, said the Germans had captured Volokolamsk after bitter fighting in which the town changed hands three times in three days.

Tula is a munitions and iron-working city of 200,000 population in the broad valley of the Upa river.

nouncement. It said the jurisdiction of the food administrator would not extend into the retail trade and prices field, since retail trade and prices are under the supervision of E. G. Burton of Toronto, administrator of retail trade, whose appointment was announced a few days ago.

SUPERVISES OFFICES

Mr. Whitehead will serve as general assistant to Mr. Burton with particular attention to organizing and supervising the system of regional and local offices throughout Canada which will be charged with carrying out the policy of freezing prices at current levels.

Mr. Whitehead has been given leave of absence by the government to serve "in this important capacity," the board said.

Head office of the retail trade administrator will be in Toronto.

As special assistant to the finance minister, Mr. Long will be on loan from Merrin W. Wilson, porter of the Royal Bank of Canada and chairman of the British supply council in North America, for a maximum period of four months, the prices board said.

Today's War Moves

German strategy. When the present German drive along the Sea of Azov started, it looked like the beginning of the main push towards the Volga river. Apparently, however, was preliminary to the main offensive, which may be expected when Rostov is taken, after which the Germans will reorganize for the winter push east.

At the start of the southern offensive, the German pressure on Moscow eased slightly. The Germans evidently hoped to force the withdrawal of defense forces from Moscow to meet the great peril in the Ukraine.

GAUGED DEFENCE RIGHTLY

The Russians, however, apparently estimated accurately the strength they needed around the capital. They decided they could be held even without the presence of Marshal Timoshenko, who had directed its defense from the start. The task was turned over to Gen. Grigori Zhukov, an old hand at fortress fighting. Timoshenko was sent south to rally the hard-pressed forces of Marshal Budenny, while Budenny and Marshal Voroshilov were assigned to building up a fresh army in the Volga region.

If Moscow holds, the Russians will have won something of a strategic victory. A stalemate would enable them to withdraw troops for the great battles expected in the south.

The southern drive of the Germans probably has not reached its full force. It will be organized when and if Rostov falls and the Crimea has been taken. The German plan, as near as military strategy can be guessed from a distance, is to strike eastward to the Caspian sea to cut off the Caucasus oil fields, and eastward from the Crimea.

check-up of various sections in the unoccupied zone and claimed the De Gaulle appeal had had no "apparent" results. No unusual incidents were reported anywhere, the ministry said.

Associated Press correspondents, on a survey of Vichy, saw only six persons observing the De Gaulle order. They were five men and one woman, who stood in front of the Church of St. Louis in the heart of Vichy, watching a tower clock tick off the five minutes from 4 to 4:05 p.m.

Around them busy traffic passed without noticing them. Normal mid-afternoon trading was going on in the stores of the workers' districts on the outskirts of the town as well as in the centre, the correspondents noted.

The call for the demonstration was issued by Gen. de Gaulle, Free French leader, in London last Saturday. For five minutes today, beginning at 4 p.m. Frenchmen were asked to suspend still at their occupations in silent protest against the German punitive measures.

Shortly before the deadline Gen. Otto Von Stuelpnagel, commander of the German forces in France, announced release of five French prisoners of war in compensation for the supplying of information to the German authorities by their relatives.

OFFERED ON TUESDAY

Only last Tuesday Von Stuelpnagel had held out the offer of releasing such prisoners if their families should deliver to the authorities information concerning terrorists who have slain German officers in Nantes and Bordeaux.

Fifty hostages were shot in each city, and an additional 50 in each city have been similarly sentenced to die. The executions of this second 100, however, were suspended Tuesday upon personal direction of Hitler, according to an announcement by Von Stuelpnagel.

The German commander told Frenchmen he was giving them their last chance to help track down anti-Nazi terrorists and "So prevent your fellow countrymen from being shot as hostages."

Von Stuelpnagel's announcement today was circulated by the French information office not long before the 4 p.m. (8 a.m. M.S.T.) deadline for the "stand still" demonstration called by Gen. de Gaulle, Free French leader.

"SIGNIFICANT" MOMENT

(The British Broadcasting Corporation, announcing the release of the two prisoners whose relatives had supplied information to the authorities, observed that the Von Stuelpnagel announcement "comes at a significant moment," adding that "it was made just four hours before the time fixed by the Free French authorities for a five-minute standstill strike throughout France."

In this demotivation, first called for by Gen. de Gaulle last Saturday and referred to in Free French broadcasts since, Frenchmen in both the occupied and unoccupied zones of France were asked to quit their occupations and stand still for five minutes in protest against German measures.)

"In Berlin the commentary Dienst Aust Deutschland claimed some Frenchmen had brought information which was aiding the Germans considerably in their search for the assassins of German officers at Nantes and Bordeaux."

The Vichy cabinet this morning heard a report by the secretary of state, Jacques Benoist Mechin, on the course and result of the conversations between the French government and the occupying authorities on the subject of hostages threatened with reprisals."

Fernand de Brinon, special envoy of the Vichy government to the German authorities in Paris, returned from Paris today after two weeks in Germany, where he saw many leading figures of the Nazi government.

Senate Action Will Be Spurred On Revision Of America Neutrality Act

sel's duty, the fact remains that the sailors were obeying their government's orders and they thus were justified in feeling that America should give them every protection."

ONE MORE INDICATION

Senator Styles Bridges (Rep., New Hampshire) an advocate of outright repeal of the Neutrality law, said that "this is just one more indication that the United States must stand up for its rights. We can not afford to be driven from the seas."

Bridges and Senator Chandler Gurney (Rep., South Dakota), said the incident demonstrated the neutrality statute should be repealed, instead of amended. "This clinches the argument," Gurney declared.

Other comments:

Senator Arthur Capper (Rep., Kansas)—"This apparently brings us closer to a fighting war. I believe, however, that any question of the United States going into war should be put up to congress."

Senator Elmer Thomas (Dem., Oklahoma)—"If we are going to get up into that country we are going to get into trouble. That is all there is to it."

Senator Wallace White (Rep., Maine)—"This is simply another demonstration that Hitler is out to attack and sink."

GOING TO BE SHOT AT

Senator Alva Adams (Dem., Colorado)—"This indicates that the Nazis are not going to let all of the shooting be on one side. Once we gave the orders to shoot, it was inevitable that we were going to be shot at. We ought to be minding our own business and not participating in war."

Senator Harry Truman (Dem.-Missouri)—"We can expect such things when our ships are in war zones."

Senator Joseph Guffey (Dem.-Pennsylvania)—"How anybody can vote against this bill (amending the neutrality act) is more than I can understand."

Senator Robert Taft (Rep.-Ohio) said that the sinking was an "inevitable result of a shooting war. Sinkings of the U.S. vessels can be expected if on convoy duty."

Senator Scott Lucas (Dem.-Illinois), said the accident was "Further proof of a well designed Hitler scheme and terroristic plan to drive all naval merchant vessels, regardless of nationality, off the Atlantic ship lanes."

Chairman Tom Connally (Dem.-Texas) of the Senate foreign relations committee said "sinking of the U.S. destroyer Reuben James in our own defensive waters is another evidence of the murderous and defiant attitude of the Nazis. This unjustified and dastardly sinking must be avenged. It ought to assure the prompt passage of the pending bill to modify the neutrality act . . . the seas do not belong to Hitler, they belong to all nations, and we shall not surrender them to his bloody and brutal sway."

Senate Democratic Leader Alben Barkley: "It appears that the Nazis are determined to drive us off the seas, and I don't believe the American people are ready to be driven off."

Senator Claude Pepper (Dem.-Florida): "Another American ship, flying the American flag, has gone down. Let us keep cool, knowing that the job ahead is to make sure of the earliest, speediest death of despotism. I am following President Roosevelt in the details of foreign policy because I have unshakable confidence in him."

Russian Port Of Archangel May Be Kept Open

LONDON, Oct. 31—(CP)—The Daily Herald's naval correspondent wrote today that there is a "firm foundation" for the belief that the Russian port of Archangel can be kept open through the winter.

He said the Russians have "been developing an icebreaker service" and that confidence they could maintain the Archangel Arctic route for winter sea traffic prompted the United States to cease aid via Vladivostok and the Pacific.

FIRM MARKS HISTORIC OCCASION

Quarter Century Of Progress Is Celebrated By Store

Sensational Values In National Home Sale Of Household Furnishings

A quarter of a century of progress would be an appropriate title for the 25th anniversary sale of the National Home Furnishers Ltd., Edmonton's big retail furniture store at 9936 Jasper avenue, that opens Saturday.

The sale, featured by sensational values of furniture, curtains and draperies, children's household requirements and, in short, everything that goes into a modern home, is in the nature of a celebration. The store management feels it is justified in a splurge of gift offerings to its host of faithful customers in the form of give-away prizes.

Still sticking close to its now oft-renowned slogan of "It's easy to pay the National way," Manager Ronald Maunder and other firm executive officers, have a true birthday attitude of mind on this historic occasion in the life of the National Home firm.

EDMONTON STORE

The National Home Furnishers Ltd. is truly an Edmonton store and of this the management is justifiably proud.

Made in Canada products have long been featured at the National store. The management takes the view that patriotism begins at home and, where a Canadian product is as good and better than an imported product, a patriotic Canadian should pay more than lip service to Canada by selling and buying these products of Canadian factories.

The store carries and will have displayed prominently throughout the present anniversary sale, a complete line of Imperial Loyalist, made-in-Canada furniture products.

The three spacious floors of the big store are crammed with everything that can be required by discerning Edmontonians.

LAY-AWAY PLAN

The National Home 4 per cent lay-away bonus plan, inaugurated six years ago, does not conflict in any way with government regulations concerning instalment buying.

All merchandise bought for immediate delivery must have an initial cash payment of one-third of the sale price.

But for persons buying for future delivery, particularly couples contemplating marriage, the layaway bonus plan is a great boon.

A small deposit will hold any article while payments are being made and at the time of delivery the customer will have a credit of four per cent of the purchase value. The merchandise is also stored free of charge. It is a case of saving money while you purchase high class home furnishings. By visiting the business office prospective purchasers will have this fine savings plan fully explained to them.

It will pay any citizen of moderate means, whose salary is not in the higher brackets, to learn the details of this plan.

A call at the business office of the store will result in a careful and courteous explanation of the plan.

The children are becoming more important all the time. The National Home store management has therefore set up the most completely stocked department of children's requirements, such as high chairs, baby cribs, scooters, in the city.

Bedroom suites in all designs and price ranges are another feature of the sale, while mirrors of every conceivable design and size are featured.

Rugs, draperies, lamps, table and twilight, chenille spreads of all kinds, are on hand at extremely attractive prices.

The National Home Furnishers Ltd. 25th anniversary sale will be an event that will be remembered for a long time by the careful buyer of home furnishings.

Store Manager

Ronald Maunder, manager of the National Home Furnishers Ltd. store, which celebrates its 25th anniversary as a unit in the business life of Edmonton with a big harvest sale, opening on Saturday.

Wisely Chosen Tables Perform Splendidly To Rejuvenate All Rooms

Tables, if well chosen, can do wonders toward rejuvenating a room that appears slightly down in the mouth. They may even make the old pieces appear to better advantage, instead of calling attention to their age, as might be supposed. The trick, of course, is to choose either the same wood or one that blends with other finishes in the room.

At the National Home Furnishers Ltd. store at 9936 Jasper Avenue, experts with many years of training in the art of matching furniture pieces and furniture shades and tones are at the service of prospective purchasers at all times.

A new cocktail table in front of the sofa or love seat . . . one of those tier tables that hold so many novelty items . . . a console table to hold a much needed lamp . . . a pair of end tables for books and magazines—these will not place too great a burden on the family budget, and certainly will make she living room more convenient for everyone.

TABLE GROWS AND GROWS

Lack of space doesn't necessarily need to be a drawback, for many tables on the market today prove to have any number of hidden talents. One, designed to satisfy the demand for a compact table that can be converted into banquet size, is the new drop-leaf butterfly type that opens to 44x60 inches and extends to eight feet. It is especially suitable for families whose living quarters require furniture scaled to occupy a minimum amount of space.

Another table that fills the bill either where she dining room is separate or treated as part of the living room, is 33x42 inches. Its wooden top is available either in birch or walnut. When the supper dishes are removed, the table top can be removed, too. There in its place is a playing top for cards and other games. It even has slots for glasses. And that isn't all, for the next transformation is to remove the playing top and expose a depth of approximately four inches, all covered by felt base, for other recreational uses.

"ALL PURPOSE" TABLE

"All-purpose" is about the only way to describe another table that is right for drafting, card-playing, and serving Dutch luncheons, and is equally adaptable to typing, sketching, picnicking. It can be a radio table, end table, music stand or child's table, to boot. Its indestructible metal top, which permits use out-of-doors, as well as inside, can be raised from a height of 23½ to 38½ inches, and will tilt to either side. Tubular bars prevent bending. Whether a table is needed for decoration, serving, entertaining, or recreational purposes, one designed to serve one or all of those functions can be found in furniture and department stores without much ado.

Tables similar in design and with equal utility are on display at the National Home store. It will be worth the while of the meticulous home stylist to visit the store and see what can be done under expert advice to make the dining and living rooms of your home a place of both beauty and utility.

HIGH PRESSURE SELLING ELIMINATED

Mutual Confidence Between Salesman, Customer, Aim

Members Of Sales Staff Experts On Merchandise; With Company Long Time

It has been said often and not without considerable truth that high pressure salesmanship has been anything but a blessing to the modern business world. All too often in the past, merchandisers with a too ardent yearning for increased sales have been guilty of high pressure tactics that have resulted in a relationship of suspicion between purchaser and dealer. Commission selling sometimes results in the worst kind of high pressure being exerted on customers.

For this reason the management of the National Home Furnishers Ltd., the big furniture centre at 9936 Jasper Avenue, has a policy of paying straight salaries to its sales staff.

The National Home Furnishers have a staff of 24 and most of the employees have been employed there for many years.

K. J. Paulsen, Mgr. Exchange Dept., 18 years experience

Of the six salesmen on the floor, the youngest in point of service has been with the firm for six years, the veteran of the sales staff has served for 19 years.

POLICY OF FIRM

In an interview with a Bulletin reporter, Ronald Maunder, manager of the store, outlined briefly the policy of the firm toward salesmen in this respect and gave the reasons for its success in his opinion.

Werner Stevens, Salesman, 15 years experience

"We long ago decided to pay our salesmen a good living wage. They therefore do not have to resort to high pressure methods to sell a customer. We are very proud of the fact that a customer can always believe our salesmen. Salesmen of the National Home do not have to color sales talks with fantastic claims in order to boost sales and their commissions," Mr. Maunder said.

Tom Ridewood, Salesman, 14 years experience

"Members of our sales staff are experts. They know exactly what they are talking about at all times when they are dealing with furnishings and because they have the feeling that their jobs and salaries are secure, the customer can be certain of honest and courteous service. The fact that our salesmen have been with us year in and year out over such a long period of time proves that our policy has been the correct one," he added.

Dick Cameron, Salesman, 11 years experience

HOLDS OLD CUSTOMERS

The fact that the National Home store holds its old customers while adding new ones all the time also proves that a policy of honesty, backed by expert knowledge of the goods, is one that says for greater dividends over the long term than one of quick sales through high pressure methods.

Herb Turvey, Salesman, 12 years experience

Experts in any line of business are the customer's best safeguard. When a person spends several years of his life at a certain occupation, he is pretty sure to know all about that particular task.

"Our salesmen know their business thoroughly. They are trained to know both the product they have for sale and enough about human traits to be of the maximum assistance to the buyer," Mr. Maunder said.

Frank Rae, Salesman, 18 years experience

CUSTOMER'S NEEDS

"Courtesy is one commodity of which there need never be a shortage and our staff makes it a point to see that this good wholesome commodity is sold every time a customer comes into our store, whether or not any other kind of a sale is made. And while the customer is always right, our sales staff try to make certain that the customer is always on the right track when it comes to selecting the best for his particular needs," the manager added.

A. A. Fraser, Credit Mgr. 25 years experience

Service with a smile is the motto of the National Home staff but at the same time they make sure that the customer will continue to smile too.

Other members of the staff include Miss V. Blair with 14 years experience, Miss M. Cooper and Miss E. Cruickshank with 4 years experience, Miss E. Christenson and Miss H. Pritchard. All these young ladies are numbered among the office staff.

Mr. G. Sinclair with 8 years in the Furniture business is in complete charge of all city deliveries. The country delivery end is taken care of by D. Murray who has had 12 years experience in that line.

National Home keeps a fine looking covered van at its disposal at all times for deliveries. Wray Campbell and Alf Tunsey are the gentlemen who work with the truck and deliver the furniture to your home. All goods are carefully wrapped in the shipping room before delivery to insure against any damage in transit.

Mr. J. Denko, expert polisher with 6 years experience looks after the finishing end while Felix Murawski does any necessary upholstering.

Proper Mattress To End Squirming

The preference of many persons for an unusually wide bed is explained by some psychologists as resulting from a subconscious desire for space in which to squirm and turn in an effort to get proper distribution of weight. If the mattress is properly designed to support the body, they contend, there is no reason why a person cannot sleep as well on a standard size bed, or even a narrow one.

National Home Furnishers Modern Store

Situated in a convenient central shopping location at 9936 Jasper avenue, the fine big store of National Home Furnishers Ltd., shown above, will be the scene of great buying activity starting Saturday. Starting on that that day the management is celebrating the 25th anniversary of the business in Edmonton by a sensational harvest sale. Prices of high class modern furniture and house furnishings of all kinds, have been drastically slashed in observance of the occasion.

Platform Rockers Are Modern Style

Grandma isn't the only one who approves of the rocking chair. Although styles may change, the comfort of the platform rocker makes it a favorite with youngsters, mother and dad and teenage people as well. New platform rockers, in light finishes and modern covers, are right at home in 1941 surroundings.

Wartime Life

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—(AP)—Notes on life in wartime: CBS heard the Moscow radio broadcasting Thursday's early morning setting-up exercises for southeast Siberia.

Light Furniture Growing Popular

There has been no halt in the growing popularity of light modern furniture. One attractive grouping, for dining room and bedroom, which is widely shown this fall, features sectional pieces which make the ensemble unusually adaptable. Square and simple in design, the pieces are edged in a raised three-grooved frame of the same light wood. Drawer-pulls are wooden squares set in the middle of each drawer.

The sectional pieces include a key unit consisting of two square drawers of equal size, useful alike as a base of a dresser or night-stand in the bedroom, or as a server or buffet in the dining room. Dining room tables, end tables, beds, straight chairs, chifforoles, and mirrors may be had to match.

Mattresses Suit Sleeper's Weight

Dealers in sleeping equipment have found that a person's weight is often the determining factor in his choice of mattresses. Light persons usually rest more comfortably on a soft mattress that gives easily under pressure. Heavier persons generally prefer firm support. Bedding makers now produce mattresses in various degrees of softness and firmness to suit all tastes.

FEW, SIMPLE RULES ARE GUIDE

Jack And Jill House Helps Buyer Study Furnishings

Difficult Dining Room Problem Now Is Solved For Help Of Customers

If a dining room is cheerful, dignified and friendly, it will debunk the long-standing theory that the dining room is the hardest room in the house to decorate. It can be fun, if a few simple rules are kept in mind.

To help the householder solve this problem, National Home Furnishers Ltd., Edmonton's popular furniture centre, at 9936 Jasper Avenue, has placed its now famous Jack and Jill house at the service of its customers.

In the interior of the Jack and Jill dining room a person is given complete freedom to arrange and re-arrange dining room furnishings until he or she is fully satisfied their pet scheme has been achieved. It's a quick ready blueprint of design available to all prospective customers who visit the National Home Furnishers Ltd.

TABLE FIRST ITEM

Naturally the largest item is the table, whether the dining scene is laid in a room of its own or shares honors with the living room. New dining room suites are scaled in proportion to the rooms most common today, so there is no reason for crowding an enormous table into a small room.

Where the family is large or accustomed to entertaining frequently, a medium size table with several leaves will fill the bill. Drop leaf tables are a boon to many homes, because their sides can be lowered to take up less space when not in use. For the tiny dinette, a gate-leg table, or one that is part of a set especially scaled for such rooms, will prevent a cramped appearance.

STORAGE SPACE IMPORTANT

Buffets, chinas and servers usually allow ample storage room for linens, dishes and glassware. Where space permits, a corner cupboard with shelves for displaying colorful china, will do wonders toward making the dining room more than just a room in which to eat and leave immediately.

There are many styles from which to choose, so there is no need to sacrifice an appreciation for any one period, whether it be modern, 18th Century, Early American, French, or something else. In woods, there are walnut, mahogany, maple, oak, and fruit woods that have been treated to bring out charming effects.

The rug naturally plays an important part. Too often the old one from the living room is moved in for economy, and then everyone wonders why the room has a jumbled appearance. It deserves its own floor covering. Floral or patterned broadloom will be right for the 18th Century room; a tone-on-tone or texture weave can't go amiss in a modern setting.

DRAPERIES GIVE "LIFT"

Draperies, likewise, can do much to create a feeling of buoyancy in the neglected dining room. Whether they are plain or figured depends largely on what type of floor covering was selected. Chintzes in large floral designs seem to give a lift to the room, when a more subtle pattern is used in the rug. If the floor covering has a vivid and definite pattern, then the draperies can be of a plain or neutral color, with a figure that is only faintly discernable.

The dining room doesn't need to be the problem child of the house if care is taken in planning its contents. And another hint: if there's room, move the pieces occasionally before the family gets tired of seeing the buffet or china in the same old spot year after year.

Model House Aids Furniture Purchasers

A furniture buyer doesn't have to guess when he purchases at the National Home Furniture store. The now famed Jack and Jill house, a model home right inside the store, is always at the service of the buyer. Furniture is placed in any of the rooms for a prospective buyer and arranged in any form desired. In this manner, chances of having poorly matched suites are reduced to an absolute minimum. A visit to the Jack and Jill house should be made by all persons visiting the National Home store during its big 25th anniversary sale that opens Saturday morning.

Huge Shipment Of Fruit For Britain

VERNON, B.C., Oct. 31—(CP)—What is believed to be the largest single shipment of processed fruit ever to leave the Okanagan Valley is being assembled here to fill orders of the British ministry of food. The shipment, 1,000,000 pounds of jam stock, is made up of green-gage plums, Italian prunes and black currants.

Timbermen Meet

OTTAWA, Oct. 31—(CP)—More than 200 members of committees formed by Allan S. Nicholson, timber controller, and representing lumber - producing regions from coast to coast, will meet in Ottawa today to discuss the relationship of lumber stocks and consumption to Canada's war effort and to recently-defined government price and wage control regulations.

Airman Is Killed When Two Planes Collide, Manitoba

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man., Oct. 31—(CP)—LAC. T. G. Stevenson of Belmont, Man., was killed and LAC. K. A. McPhadden of Bounty, Sask., injured, Thursday, when two Tiger-Moth training planes from the No. 14 Elementary Flying Training School collided in mid-air and crashed near Newton, Man.—the second mid-air collision near here within six days.

Royal Canadian Air Force officials announced a court of inquiry has been assembled to investigate the mishap.

Riga's Jews

BERLIN, Oct. 31—(AP)—Most of Riga's 80,000 Jews were forced into a ghetto there on Oct. 5, according to the newspaper Deutsche Zeitung in Ostland, which is published at the former Latvian capital. The ghetto will be cut off from the life of the rest of the city.

Lariats Scarce

TUCSON, Ariz., Oct. 31—(AP)—Priorities have shut off the supply of lariats and the Arizona cowpunchers want something done about it. They telegraphed an appeal to William S. Knudsen, director of the office of production management, arguing that rope is just as important to national defence on the cattle range as it is on the deck of a naval vessel.

FURNISHING HARMONY

Matched Colors Important

New Scientific Chart Assists Home Makers Achieve Proper Plans

There's an old true saying that things are not always what they seem to be. This is certainly true when it comes to the important business of matching colors in room furnishings.

People often have strong partialities when it comes to colors and when they are buying furniture they too often forget that their favorite colors just don't go with what is left at home in the room, with what is left at home in the room.

But science has made disappointments a thing of the past in this respect and the National Home Furnishers Ltd., modern furniture store at Jasper avenue and 99 street has a marvellous new device that takes guesswork out of the problem of matching colors.

It is called the Kroehler color harmonizer and it quickly, and with scientific exactitude, decides for the customer, just what colors will go with furnishings already in any room.

For instance, the living room suite is the key to the color scheme of the room.

The centre dial of the Kroehler color harmonizer represents the suite color and controls the illustration of the room. The upper right hand dial operates the wall colors. The other dial controls the rug colors. There are seven different color dots on the face of each dial. Each of these dots represents one of the basic colors obtainable in the shadow box.

By a few simple twists of the dials a customer is able to see a complete room in his or her selected color scheme. Then if things don't match there's no necessity for long and tiresome discussion between salesman and customer.

Only the color blind can make errors with the Kroehler color harmonizer. It "talks" in a language that permits of no argument.

Wheat Prices Not Boosted By Sales

WINNIPEG, Oct. 31—(CP)—Despite overnight Canadian wheat export business, estimated at about 1,000,000 bushels, buying failed to develop on an appreciable scale on Winnipeg grain exchange today where wheat futures closed ⅛ higher to ¼ lower. October finished at 72⅝, December 72⅞ and May 76⅝.

Minor mill and southern purchases along with evening-up trades prior to the October future going off the board at the close of the market today provided the majority of operations.

Mutual Life Sales Higher

Members of the field force of the Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada were congratulated in a recent head office bulletin on having achieved the objective set for 1941 within the first nine months of the year. The objective was $600,000,000 of business in force representing an anticipated increase of $15,000,000 for the year. At the end of September business in force had already exceeded $600,100,000 and a further strong increase for the remainder of the year was indicated.

A steady forward movement in insurance buying has been noted throughout the year, reflected both in improved production and increasing business in force.

Comparing the present situation with that in the last war, Mr. W. H. Somerville, general manager of the company, has pointed out that there was a slight reduction in new business in 1915, with a gradual recovery in 1916 and a sharp increase in 1917. In the present situation there has been no reduction since 1939, and indications are that the upward movement is beginning to accelerate rapidly.

The healthy position of insurance at this time is attributed by Mr. Somerville to the rapid expansion of industry and the fact that many people formerly idle are now fully and gainfully employed. Curtailment of luxury and instalment buying, and increasing pressure for greater saving are also likely to prove factors in future progress.

Alberta Oils

CALGARY, Oct. 31—(CP)—A burst of activity on Calgary stock exchange today boosted transactions to over 10,000 shares and posted gains for a fair number of issues. There were also some recessions but not sufficient to depress averages below a moderate gain. Spooner advanced 1½ cents and Grease Creek a fraction. Vulcan gained three cents. Mercury and United, also active, were unchanged at the close.

A Costless Improvement

Plans are being drawn for an administration building at the airport, another indication of the growing business done and to be done at the port, and of the growing importance of the city as an air centre. While a good deal of the activity at the field is at present due to the training of airmen for the fighting forces, commercial planes are also growing in numbers, and more and more United States planes are calling on the way to and from Alaska. Because of this steady growth and of commercial aviation, the end of the war and the stoppage of training may not cause nearly as heavy a drop in the business at the port as must otherwise be expected.

A feature of the present proposal which will recommend it strongly to taxpayer approval is that rentals are in sight which will cover the capital charges and operating expenses of the new building. Government branches having to do with the carrying on of air services will rent quarters there, as will the companies operating planes. The project is therefore a self-liquidating investment, the revenue from which will take care of the outlay and meet running expenses.

The building, it is to be supposed, will be large enough to allow for future needs, and of durable construction. It would be a mistake to build on any other lines, for air transport has come to stay, and to expand.

Not Playing Hitler's Game

The plain implication from his navy-day speech is that if and when it becomes necessary or advisable, President Roosevelt will ask Congress to declare war against the Axis. There is no suggestion that he intends to do this in the early future, and he probably does not.

The United States has been taking and is taking precisely the course the Axis powers did not want it to take. It would suit Herr Hitler far better if the republic should rush into war unarmed or half-armed. If it did so, United States surplus would have to be withheld from his foes for the use of its own armed forces, while Japan would be given a wide-open opportunity to launch its long-threatened war in the Pacific. By keeping out of war, the United States is blocking Japan, while it supplies "tools" to Britain and Russia which they desperately need and could get nowhere else.

No one can foresee what changes in the situation may compel the President to abandon this policy of non-belligerent opposition to the Axis. Barring such changes, he is likely to hold this course until the United States can be "armed to the teeth" without holding back needed equipment and munitions from Britain and Russia.

That is the long-range strategy of victory, and Hitler knows it. This is why his submarines have been ordered to sink United States merchant ships and warships. He wants to provoke the United States, in hope that it will plunge into the war half-prepared—and thus bring Japan in. Mr. Roosevelt is not very likely to plunge until he gets ready, for he has out-thought Hitler at every stage in their dealings.

Too Good To Miss

Up to the end of September the sales of war savings certificates and stamps netted the Dominion Government nearly more than $80,000,000. In the drive for purchasers made last winter the objective was set at sales of $10,000,000 of these securities per month. That objective was attained. What is even more important, it has been maintained, for the average sales over the nine month period approximate this sum per month. Those who started buying have kept on buying.

Another drive is now under way—to get more buyers on the list. Not simply more buyers for one month, but for all the months to come. That should not be difficult. It should not be impossible to double the number of regular buyers and the amount of monthly sales. For the certificates now have the strongest recommendation any commodity can have—that those who have bought are continuing to buy.

This fact must arouse the attention of those who have not yet joined the army of buyers. When a customer goes back for more nobody has to ask whether he is satisfied with the goods. Obviously he has found something that suits him. That those who have invested in these war savings "baby bonds" are investing in them regularly is proof that they find these a very satisfactory place in which to put surplus earnings.

There is of course nothing strange in this to those who have taken trouble to think over the matter, for the advantages of this method of helping to finance the war and lay aside savings for future use are readily apparent. The certificates can be bought in small amounts. They can be bought any time. They gain in value at the rate of about three per cent. There is no income tax on the gain. And, if he needs the money, the holder can cash in his certificate at any time after six months from date of purchase.

Those who have not realized the good fortune of their neighbors who began buying long ago should note the fact that these are steadily piling up their holdings. That speaks for itself. The chance to buy certificates is too good to miss.

Mussolini has evidently been told that if he can't do anything else for the cause he might talk. He has been out on the balcony twice this week.

—V—

The Japanese were advised semi-officially to read Mr. Roosevelt's speech remembering that Japan has been made an ally of Germany. Is it suspected they are trying to forget that entangling alliance?

—V—

The party of Canadian airmen who refused to sail from an eastern port in a crowded and dirty transport suffer nothing in official or public estimation on that account. Technically they were "in wrong," but only because some one somewhere had failed to do his duty in cleaning up the ship. That, it is safe to say, will not happen again.

—V—

Dr. Arias, deposed president of Panama, may come to Canada to live, if he is willing to live here under the conditions laid down in granting him the permission. The conditions have not been announced, but the purpose and effect can be surmised. Consent to his admission into the Dominion was given because it was thought safer to have Arias live in a belligerent country, where he could be watched, than running loose among neutral states down around the Panama canal. "Protective custody" is the Axis term appropriate to the case.

—V—

The isolationists at Washington are finding themselves short of ammunition for debate. One of them suggested that the arming of merchant ships would invite attack upon them and jeopardize the lives of the sailors. The implication is that United States merchant ships are safe while they are unarmed. The fact is that nine of these are now at the bottom of the sea, and dozens of their sailors and passengers are dead. Not one instance has been reported of an Axis raider getting within range of a United States merchant ship without attacking it.

Lack Of Joint Strategy Is Felt

Britain and Russia Are Far Apart in Military Understanding It Is Believed

By HAROLD L. WEIR

There is increasing reason to believe that the Moscow Conference, which lasted only four days, might have been more successful if it had not been so hastily and hurried and if the delegates of the British and American governments had taken time to discuss strategy with Premier Joseph Stalin.

Harold L. Weir

Even before the conference was held, it was feared that it might take place without adequate preparation and that the delegates of the two great democracies might be tempted to rush into an agreement to furnish Russia supplies without getting a clear understanding on other matters.

That fear was logically based on the hasty and amateurish manner in which the British and American negotiations were conducted in 1933 when the United States agreed to recognize the Soviet Union without securing a clear and detailed agreement on financial and trade matters.

This time it appears that these apprehensions have been justified and that the urgency of the supplies problem caused Great Britain and the United States to forget, or, in any case, to neglect, all but the most general discussions of joint action in the field.

This oversight, more than anything else, might be responsible for the obvious reluctance of the British government to open a new front against the Germans in aid of Russia.

In the Caucasus

The basis for this belief is found in the indisputable fact that while North Caucasus is in grave peril, Russian divisions are still in Iran and British divisions are neither fighting north of the Caucasus or relieving Soviet divisions in South Caucasus.

It naturally would be assumed by all observers, including the Germans and Italians, that the British would make their second front in this part of the world, or, at least, that they would be sent there to relieve Soviet divisions for active fighting.

If, as a result of active military cooperation between the British and the Russians has not yet materialized, it must be that no agreement was reached between the British and the Russians on this question when the representatives of Britain and the United States were in Moscow and that it is left to Stalin, the only man in the Soviet Union who could make a decision on such an important matter.

Certainly a decision would be hard to reach at the present time while Stalin is in Moscow and General Mason MacFarlane, head of the British military mission, is hundreds of miles away in Kuibyshev.

Little Contact

While officially Britain is being extremely correct and friendly towards Russia, it has not failed to be remarked last evening that practically none of the two allies should be in personal and continual contact with each other.

While the question of a British expedition to the Caucasus, the removal of certain Russian divisions from Iran still hangs fire, there is a hint that the British are thinking in terms of a Libyan offensive.

It was the general impression in London, a week or so ago, that our high command was more interested in concentrating on the Caucasus than in Libya. It was also common talk that the Russians had told the British, through diplomatic channels, that they were not interested in a British offensive in Africa because, in the Russian estimation, it would not draw any appreciable German force from the eastern front.

Times Comment

An interesting viewpoint is expressed in a recent Daily Times comment.

Pointing out that the eastern end of the Singapore-Libyan line "is at present defensively sound" and that "it will remain so unless Japan should allow herself to be cajoled into stirring it up," the Times examines other possible fields of action and seems to dismiss all but the western desert.

"We may carry our eyes across to the opposite end," it says, "past India with her growing war industries and her growing military forces; past Iran and the Persian Gulf with their access to the Caucasus; past Iraq, Syria and Palestine; past the Suez Canal, the greater water link between East and West, and Cairo, the hub of the Middle East command, and Alexandria, the great naval base, to the bleak wastes of the western desert. Here great battles have been fought and may be refought. Here are possibilities of reaching a sensitive Axis flank."

This is all highly illuminating.

But it seems to be a flight of strategical imagination that is not clearly shared by those other allied forces whose co-operation would be essential to the success of any such movement.

Agreement Needed

If, as seems definitely established, the Russians are not interested in the western desert campaign, while Great Britain are, it would appear logical, before any more time is lost, for the two parties—represented by the very highest authorities—to discuss this matter and settle on a compromise.

As one of Russia's principal foreign sources of supply and as a heavy investor in British-Russian success, the United States could hardly be expected to remain uninterested in such an agreement.

In short, there seems to be looming on the horizon of international importance, involving Britain, Russia and the United States, where matters of even greater moment than supply may be discussed and settled.

Uh Huh!

Governmental Costs Are Rising Rapidly

Overhead in Tax Collection Very Low in Canada, But Other Overheads Increase

By B. T. RICHARDSON

OTTAWA—With the federal government undertaking measures to limit expansion and control never before dreamed of in Canada outside the covers of a socialist text book, the overhead cost of running the country is rising rapidly. The cost of the wage and price controls will be heavy and if the stage arrives when rationing has to be applied, the administrative cost will go up with each community placed on the ration list.

The public records have not yet caught up with war costs in many respects, the latest issue of the auditor-general's report being for the year ending March 31, 1941. By drawing on figures in the current estimates for 1941-42, it is possible to gauge the rise in overhead costs.

The finance department, now the nerve centre of economic control in Canada, is a good example. Administrative costs in the finance department were $249,864, in 1939-40. The 1941-42 estimates, on which the department is now operating, provides $356,425 for administrative overhead. This represents an increase of 42 per cent in three years. To judge how necessary this increase has been, all one needs do is consider the tremendously increased burden placed on the finance department by the war.

It is not strange that the overhead has gone up 42 per cent, but that it has not gone up more.

Hard Fight

Yet no one can witness the sharp increase in size and cost of bureaucracy without wondering where it will all end, and make a pledge to fight hard after the war to reduce that cost by 50 per cent.

The main point between the two world systems locked in deadly conflict today, between Hitler's system and our own, is that Hitler's system would make this costly and comprehensive bureaucracy a permanent thing, ours would preserve the freedom required in striving to keep it at a minimum.

The external affairs department, the channel of Canada's relations with other countries, operated on an administrative outlay of $175,078 in 1939-40. The 1941-42 estimates provide $220,800 for the same purpose in the present year.

This is an increase of 26 per cent, providing the department spends all its budget, and from observation one would say that external affairs will not spend a penny more of the people's money than is necessary.

The income tax division of the national revenue department is another branch that has been carrying a heavily increased burden on account of the war, with new and added taxes to look after. This division spent an administrative expenses in 1939-40 the sum of $2,468,267.97.

In the current year its administrative costs have been estimated at $3,441,576, an increase of 38 per cent. One can only look at an increase of this size and blink, for the income tax division is one of the most economically-operated in the entire federal system.

Canada's overhead in tax collection is sensationally low in comparison with many other countries.

Paying

LONDON CALLING

The standard rate of income tax is now ten shillings in the pound. But that figure gives no real guidance to what the different income groups have to pay. There are allowances for wives and children. The man with a family receives special rebates. The bigger incomes are super-charged.

An income of £3,000 a year is the actual limit at which you can hand over a full ten shillings in every pound. A bachelor with £1,000 a year pays £381; a bachelor with £500 a year, £156, and a bachelor with £250 a year, £62. From £1,000 a year upwards the rate climbs until, finally, a man with an income of £100,000 pays £97 back in tax.

It has been calculated that to get a clear income of £5,000 a year a man must make £60,000. To have a tax-free income of £15,000 a year in Britain now requires such a fantastic turnover that its achievement is almost impossible.

Here is a notion of the way the rich man is placed. A wealthy friend of mine recently made a gift of £100 to charity. By comparison with his theoretical income that was all that he will retain as actual income, after he has paid tax, is sixpence in every pound. So to give away £100 he has to make £4,000.

Sixth Columnists

JOHANNESBURG TIMES

It is opportune to point out that the pernicious activities of Sixth Columnists are common alike to all countries at war, or threatened by war, and frustrating the war effort, they can push one country toward devaluation and another country toward inflation, and they must, therefore, be checked and punished in all countries.

The Sixth Columnists are the profiteer-grabbers, the rent racketeers, and those who refuse to face, much less to shoulder, any of the responsibilities the war has brought to the land. The profiteer has bled the consumer, the rent racketeers hold business firms to ransom, and all three classes encourage "graft," waste and delay, sap the resources of the country, drain away the enthusiasm of its fighting forces and other war workers, and, whether purposely or not, help the Fifth Columnists and potential Quislings to spread defeatism.

It is not enough to threaten these people or merely to place in their way legal obstacles which are either not enforced or which they can devise cunning methods of circumventing. They must be rigorously punished, not only for their crimes, but also, wherever possible, for their evil intentions.

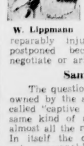
Truculent Labor Minority Is Direct Result Of Isolationism

Stand of John L. Lewis Is Direct Product of Hoover and Landon Attitude

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Mr. John L. Lewis would certainly agree, that if the United States is to live, no loyal citizen would dream of closing down the coal mines and of threatening to stop the production of steel. The only conceivable explanation of what Mr. Lewis has done, and threatens to do, is that he has searched his conscience and does not believe that the emergency is critical enough to make it the duty of every man to rally to the defense of his country.



W. Lippmann

On no other ground could he, or would he, attempt to justify his action and conduct. The strike he has called involves no question which can possibly be settled by him as of such vital and urgent importance to the miners that they will be irreparably injured if the settlement is postponed because it takes time to negotiate or arbitrate it.

Same Union Shop

The question is whether in coal mines owned by the steel companies, which are so-called "captive mines," there shall be the same kind of union shop as there is in about all the rest of the mining industry. In itself the demand of the miners is not unreasonable. But since these captive mines have been operated for years without the union shop, Mr. Lewis should explain to the country why he feels justified in saying that on Oct. 27, 1941, it became so important to the union shop in these mines that, rather than permit delay for negotiations, a crippling blow must be struck at the national defense.

It is no explanation for Mr. Lewis to say that he does not like the Mediation Board, or Mr. Hillman, or the President. For what is at stake is the defense of the United States—a far greater thing than any man, be his name Roosevelt, or Hillman, or Lewis. Since Mr. Lewis is not and cannot deny that his action is a blow at the national defence, there is only one explanation for it that a loyal citizen of this country. It is that he thinks defense is not the most important business of Americans, that the emergencies proclaimed by the President and recognized by the unprecedented appropriations of Congress is not in fact critical, and that private interests are more valuable to the country as of no supreme national interest were at stake.

Honest Belief

As a matter of fact, this is just what Mr. Lewis does believe, and he is fully entitled to say that he does not stand alone, that, on the contrary, he is doing nothing which is not the logical and justifiable consequence of the position taken by most of the Republican leaders and of proved conservation. On Aug. 5 Mr. Lewis was invited to join ex-President Hoover, ex-Vice-President Dawes, ex-Governor Bowden and Mr. Alfred Landon in a public statement which declared that "few people honestly believe that the Axis is now, or will in the future be in a position to threaten the independence of any part of this hemisphere if our defenses are properly maintained." Mr. Lewis is right, for if these Republican leaders are right that there is no imminent and no serious threat to the security of this hemisphere, then a strike which tied up the steel industry for a few weeks would be at worst an inconvenience.

Seven days afterward, on Aug. 12, the Republican organization in the House of Representatives placed itself on record before the country and the world as believing that, despite the urgent pleas of the Chief of Staff, it was safe to dislocate the organization of our partially trained army. As a matter of fact Mr. Martin and his Republican friends did not intend to defeat the Army extension bill. They meant to "teach Mr. Roosevelt a lesson" and show their own strength by letting the bill pass only by the narrowest margin; at the last moment they were in a panic when it appeared that they might succeed only too well and have enough votes to defeat the bill. For they no more meant to wreck the Army that Mr. Lewis means to wreck the armament program: the Republican politicians were only staging a political act to get what they thought would be a political advantage.

No Scapegoat

So Mr. Lewis should not be singled out as the specially appointed scapegoat. He is in eminently respectable company, and nothing he has done is in any way inconsistent with the views of his associates in the Aug. 5 declaration, or with the action of the Republican organization in the House.

If the Hoover-Lewis view of the war and the national security is sound, then the mine workers are not striking against the national interest when they strike against the steel companies; they are doing only what, in the absence of the national emergency, they would normally do. If Mr. Martin was justified in defying the President, the Secretary of War, and the Chief of Staff on the critical question of Army service, then Mr. Lewis is doing nothing more reprehensible when he defies the President on the critical question of production to provide weapons for the armed forces.

Isolationist

It is necessary to insist upon this—the background—of Mr. Lewis's action because only with these things in mind can we see the fundamental issue. The issue is not labor unionism, or the union shop, or the labor policies of the New Deal, or the labor policies of the steel companies but whether the isolationist position can any longer be reconciled with the defense of American security. On this fundamental issue we have now come to a showdown. Mr. Lewis would not be striking if he were not an isolationist, if he did not believe that our foreign policy is wrong and that there is, therefore, no urgent need for an all-out effort of total defense. This is the position of Mr. Martin and his Republican followers. And this, though they shrink from the consequences, is the position of Mr. Hoover and Mr. Landon when they stake their influence on the view that America is not involved in the war and has no vital interest in the outcome of the war.

It is impossible in practice to reconcile the isolationist position with total defense, even though it is theoretically most of the isolationist leaders approve of total national defense. For if the isolationists are right, if the country is not threatened by the Berlin-Rome-Tokio alliance, if the defeat of Britain, China and Russia would not be a threat to the security and the vital interests of America, if our greatest danger comes not from Hitler but from Mr. Roosevelt, then the scale and scope and intensity of the effort for national defense are absurd.

Showdown

If the national defense effort is unnecessary, then it is wrong to conscript men, it is wrong to appropriate sixty billions, it is wrong to levy huge taxes, it is wrong to institute priorities, it is wrong to object to labor's striking for advantages. It is impossible to ask the country to make these sacrifices if men as eminent as Mr. Hoover and a party as respectable as the Republican party, continue to argue that there does not exist a danger real and great enough to call for such sacrifices. The issue, then, is broader and deeper than the mechanics of labor relations, than dev ices, loyalties, and all other matters of ways and means. The question at issue is the national will of the American people. For only when that will is clear can the ways and means be found to serve it.

So the showdown is necessary. A decision must be taken by the nation as to whether or not the republic is in danger, as to whether or not, therefore, we are to have national unity and national discipline such as a great occasion requires, or whether we are to have business-as-usual, politics-as-usual, labor-unionism-as-usual. Until we have settled that issue, we cannot settle conclusively and effectively any other issue. We are at the end of debating and the time of decision is at hand. We have to know now what we think and what we mean to do, and what course, having taken our decision, it will be the duty of all men to support.

Holstein Cows Near Record As Milk Producers

Two Holstein dairy cows belonging to Hays & Co., Ltd., Calgary and one cow of the University of Alberta herd have recently completed records that place them within the 17 Canadian Holsteins that hold lifetime records of 150,000 pounds of milk production, according to figures issued by the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada.

University Rosebud Pontiac, bred and owned by the university, started on a test as a three year old and has just completed, as a 15 year old, a record of 159,480 pounds of milk production. During her 12 years of production this cow has broken 12 consecutive milking records. She is the Alberta champion for the lifetime production of fat with 6,063 pounds.

GREAT PRODUCTION

In 11 years of milking Hays' Lady Palestine Prilly has produced 158,380 pounds of milk containing 5,360 pounds fo fat. All her life she has been the property of Hays & Co., Ltd., Calgary.

The third lifetime producer champion recently listed in this province is Hays' Calamity DeKol, also a member of the Hays & Co., Ltd., herd. She has produced 8,541 pounds of fat from 190,260 pounds of milk in nine lactations.

Two cows of the C.P.R. Demonstration Farm, Strathmore, have recently passed the 100,000 pounds class. These are Strathmore Aggie Koba and Strathmore Belle Morag.

B. E. Hosford, Edmonton, producer

Tuxedo Dekol Ann, owned by duced the most fat from twice-a-day milking in the three-year-old class of any of the 31 tests completed across Canada recently. She produced 679 pounds of fat from 19,026 pounds of milk in one year.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

The familiar complaint, "My child won't eat cereal or vegetables or eggs," still echoes in the land.

Seemingly, there isn't a child alive who likes all foods indiscriminately. That this is nothing new at all is evident by the action of those adults who willingly proclaim that they never have liked any vegetables but peas or corn, or can't "stomach" rice pudding or sauer kraut or what have you.

It seems to me there is no particular crime in allowing a child to have some independence in the selection of the foods he would like to eat. If his lips curl at the touch of spinach—and with some babies this is exactly their reaction—why worry about spinach? It can be mashed in food value by half a dozen other vegetables, of the same, leafy, green type.

The same thing is true of cereals. Whole grain cereals are excellent and desirable foods, but if a child will have none of them, then so be it. He can have whole grain breads, toasted and buttered and served with a glass of milk. Or whole grain crackers crumbled into a dish with milk; or milk toast, or bananas, raw or baked, or mealy, baked potatoes and he will get substantially the same nutritional elements.

If these are supplemented by the starchy vegetables such as peas or beans or corn or squash or turnips or beets it seems quite immaterial whether he ever eats a dish of cooked cereal.

Eggs, we mentioned above, are one of the commonplace dislikes. If you like eggs, this comes as a surprise, for a nice, fresh egg, prepared in almost any way will seem most appetizing fare. But, if you happen to be one of those who suffer some sensitivity toward eggs and eating them makes hives pop out on you, or makes your mouth burn and redden or makes you physically ill, then eggs are not your dish.

As a mother, if your baby reacts this way, don't think you can fool his stomach by insinuating eggs into his other foods. He'll react just the same way, even though he's gullible enough to eat them.

So, food dislikes, distastes and sensitivities are very real things and should not be pooh-poohed and ever-ridden. A mother gets farther by giving the child the foods he likes and then making any new food so attractive in appearance and flavor, and serving it when baby is so hungry that eventually it will take its place among the well-liked foods. If it doesn't—be nonchalant about it.

My leaflet, "Foods for Young Children," will be mailed to you free on request. Inquiries should be addressed to me in care of this newspaper, and a self-addressed, three-cent-stamped envelope should be provided for return mailing.

McKenney On Bridge

By WM. E. McKENNEY, America's Card Authority

Lieut. Col. "Al" Gruenther dropped me a line recently. I know tournament players throughout the East, who recall him as Major Gruenther, will be delighted to know of his promotion. He has moved on to San Antonio, Tex., where he is deputy chief-of-staff of the Third Army.

Colonel Gruenther has been the director of the Vanderbilt team-of-four every year, one of the most colorful team contests in bridge. This tournament is now under the auspices of the Contract Bridge League and is for the national knockout open team-of-four championship. The contest is scheduled for the week beginning April 13, 1942.

Today's hand is an interesting one from this year's tournament. West, who held one diamond, naturally discouraged North from making his normal lead. The result was a short-suit opening which had declarer guessing for the rest of the hand. He played the queen from dummy and won.

Now, if you find the idea that North must hold at least one honor in each of the black suits, else he would probably have led from nothing in preference to leading from the king of hearts.

Declarer, therefore, cashed the ace and king of spades, expecting either to find North with a doubleton honor or a tripleton. On the third spade lead, South was in to cash his fourth spade. North let go two diamonds. South exited with a heart.

Now declarer, having discovered that North had led from the king of hearts when he might have led switched his ideas and decided that North could not hold the queen of clubs. So he cashed the ace and king of clubs, hoping to drop the doubleton queen from South.

The upshot of all this misguessing was that declarer made just nine tricks. At the other table of the match, West bid and played the hand normally and with a diamond lead, he made game. His team won the match by 60 points—just the margin of the two extra tricks.

RUSSIANS FEEL TIME FAVORS THEM

Mud, Winter Weather Getting In Hard Licks At Nazis

Onset Of Bitter Cold Will Stall Movements Of All Ground Forces

By A. T. STEELE

KUIBYSHEV, Oct. 31. — (CDN) — Complaints in the German news reports of the appalling conditions of the Russian roads demonstrate that those much-publicized and over-rated tacticians, generals mud and winter are getting in a few hard licks. However, it will be another six weeks or so before winter conditions will reach the acute stage and that may be reckoned as the period within which Hitler hopes to accomplish his main objectives on the central and

The Germans got a break at the beginning of their drive toward Moscow when a sudden, severe freeze hardened the muck of the dirt roads and fields making it comparatively easy to move and manoeuvre tanks, trucks and other motorized equipment. But this lasted only a week or 10 days. It was followed by a thaw accompanied by rain, sleet and snow which reduced the byways to their original atrocious conditions and made blitz tactics difficult.

In general the weather in central and northern Russia for the past four weeks has remained just below or just above freezing with the almost continuous cloudiness probably affecting somewhat the scope and accuracy of bombing and strafing operations. If nature follows its normal course, the weather will turn gradually colder until the last half of December when winter will have obtained a grim and unshakeable grip. From late December until the beginning of March the temperatures in the Leningrad and Moscow regions will range consistently between 10 and 40 below zero with the ground like granite and snow in varying depths. Tanks and airplanes to be sure can be operated in these conditions through the movements of ground troops and the handling of rifles, machine guns and small arms becomes a slow and painful matter.

MAN OF SURPRISES

Hitler is a man of surprises but it remains to be seen whether he has found an answer for the Russian winter. That the Russians do not think so is indicated by this rhetorical passage from the Moscow newspapers:

"Time works for us. Hitler is afraid of time. We'll impose on Hitler that which he fears most. We'll force him to slow down, become imbedded in snow and get stiff with frost. The Germans will be able to find warmth only in the grave."

On the southern front—in the Don basin and the Ukraine—winter will descend with less ferocity than in the north. Even there, however, sub-zero temperatures are common and snow often piles up to a great depth. By the middle of December the rivers throughout the entire country will have become highways of ice—a factor which is likely to be more hindrance than help to the Soviet cause.

WARMLY UNIFORMED

The Red Army will meet winter well and warmly uniformed. This Russian army is no tatterdemalion army. The best of everything in Russia goes to the army and this applies to clothing as much as it does to food. The soldier at the front is protected against piercing cold by a layer of flannel underwear, successively by a one-third woolen uniform, a padded cotton vest and a long woolen greatcoat descending to his ankles. Bands of cotton cloth give added protection to his wrists and knees. His gloves are of wool and his head and ears are covered with a woolen helmet lined with substitute fur. His soft and heavy leather boots reach almost to his knees and for those on active duty there is a special issue of "valenki"—felt boots—which are the warmest of Russian footwear.

The Russian army is ready for the winter campaign but is hoping that the cold weather will bring a lull and the breathing spell that they desire.

Since the campaign in Finland the Russians have given greater attention to the training of a capable body of ski troops. Actually great in popularity in Russia both as a sport and as training for military service.

Allies Produce More Aircraft Than Dictators

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—(AP)—T. P. Wright, one of the world's leading aircraft production engineers, states in an article in the magazine "Aviation" to be published today that Britain and the United States now have exceeded the military plane output of Germany and Italy.

"The total air power of the Allies will be greater than that of the Axis powers early in 1942," he says.

His forecasts have been widely quoted since he first outlined the amount of factory expansion needed to produce 50,000 airplanes following President Roosevelt's message to a joint session of congress in May, 1940.

Today's production is almost exactly what Wright, in June, 1940, said it would be at this time.

PRODUCTION INCREASE

Identified with the aircraft branch of the office of production management, he says further in the current article:

That the rate of production increase for aircraft in the United States in the last few months is greater than that for any other country in the world in any period.

That American airplanes are considered as a whole, unsurpassed in quality by those of any other country.

That the entrance of Russia into the war far more than offsets any effort which the conquered nations have been "forced to contribute."

And he feels supremacy in the air which is being gained by the Allies will bring them ultimate victory, possibly in 1942.

Wright was active in the management of the Curtiss-Wright Corporation, largest producer of combat planes in the United States, before he went to O.P.M.

TOTAL AIR POWER

He estimates that the United States will attain a production of well over 2,000 planes a month by the end of 1942, and a rate of 50,000 planes per year is in sight.

Current output of American factories he puts at approximately 2,000 a month.

"I am still of the opinion," he writes, "that, without counting Russia, the rate of production of England, augmented by one-half of the United States production, is now greater than the output of Germany and Italy plus the production of conquered countries, and that the total air power of the Allies will be greater than that of the Axis powers early in 1942."

Clinic Requested To Collect Blood For War Victims

Request from national headquarters has been received by the local branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society for the setting up of a clinic for collection and shipment of "whole blood", to eastern Canada, E. E. Roper stated Thursday. The blood is to be sent overseas for use in transfusions for war victims.

Several experiments of shipping whole blood to laboratories in Toronto, from western centres have been successfully carried out, and it is expected that similar shipments will go from Edmonton. Later the blood will be dried and packed for shipment.

Mr. Roper stated that the local Red Cross is discussing the matter currently with authorities at the University of Alberta, to decide the best method of setting up a clinic in the city for the collection and shipment of blood.

Optimist Club Hears Outline Flying Training

Members of the Optimist club in luncheon at the Macdonald hotel Thursday heard Wing Commander J. A. Hutchison, commanding officer of No. 4 Initial Training school, outline the stages of training through which an airman must pass before he is qualified to become a pilot or an air observer.

He told of the rigorous health examinations which the young man must clear before he is admitted to the manning depot.

At the manning depot he is initiated into army life and from there he is admitted to the initial training school. At this school stress is laid upon discipline and physical training.

Both are essential prerequisites for an efficient airman, he said.

In the case of the observer, emphasis is laid upon mathematics, Wing Commander Hutchison said.

R. W. Hamilton, president of the club, presided.

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 31—(CP)—A Royal Canadian Air Force enquiry was opened here Thursday into a plane crash Thursday morning which killed LAC. Full Gasoline Rationing Near Cottrelle Says

WINNIPEG, Oct. 31—(CP)—G. R. Cottrelle, Dominion oil controller, said here late last night that he may "Break away at any time now from the present method of curtailing gasoline sales and impose full gasoline rationing."

Mr. Cottrelle made this statement in an interview following an address to the young men's section, Winnipeg Board of trade.

He said the present curtailment program "Is not nearly enough."

"We'll give it a fair trial," he added, "but at any time we may break away and try full rationing."

The present restriction orders close all gasoline stations from 7 p.m. to 7 a.m. during week days and all day Sunday.

COUNTRY'S REQUIREMENTS

Mr. Cottrelle explained that the Dominion requires in a normal year about 45,000,000 barrels of crude oil. With war needs and a mushrooming war industry total requirements will be pushed to 60,000,000 or 63,000,000 barrels a year.

In his address, the oil controller affirmed his determination to fill the needs of the navy, army and air force and war industry before all others.

He said the amount of oil being taken this year from the Turner Valley field in Alberta was "the last barrel possible" without undue loss and waste.

"Canada produces only 15 per cent of its oil requirements," said Mr. Cottrelle. Of the amount imported, 74 per cent is brought in by tanker, 22 per cent by pipeline and four per cent by rail.

"At the end of this year's navigation season the storage tanks at Montreal will be practically dry. A 35,000 barrel-per-day pipeline being rushed to completion between Portland, Me., and Montreal, will not be completed until next year.

"Even then," said Mr. Cottrelle, "tankers will be needed to bring the oil to Portland. Meanwhile we shall have to send oil to Montreal from other parts of Canada."

"We are searching ship graveyards in the Great Lakes for lake tankers. And with all the tankers we can possibly obtain from all sources we should barely be able to meet demands on the present scale."

Mr. Cottrelle announced during his address that Dr. G. G. Brown of the University of Michigan had been invited to make an investigation of the Turner Valley wells to determine if present production would deplete the stores of natural gas necessary to force the oil to the surface.

"Dr. Brown's report may well sound a warning to us to reduce production. I am personally glad he is making the report, for I refuse to take the chance of ever being blamed for ruining the Alberta field."

Show Planned For Active Servicemen

Outstanding dramatic success of this week, "Ladies in Retirement," which was presented for the last time to a civilian audience in the Masonic Temple on Thursday evening, will be presented for the pleasure of sailors, soldiers and airmen at the week-end.

The performance will be given in the Strand theatre on Sunday evening under auspices of the War Services Entertainment Board. Only members of the armed forces in uniform will be allowed to attend the performance. The Strand theatre has offered the use of the theatre for the occasion.

Murder Charge

VICHY, Oct. 31—(AP)—Georges Girard, Jr., son of the foreign ministry official who wrote the government "Yellow Book" outlining the events leading to France's entry into the war, was arrested Thursday and charged with the triple axe murder Sunday of his father, an aunt and a maid, in the Girard Chateau near Perigueux.

Man Found Dead In Car On Side Road

CALGARY, Oct. 31—(CP)—Believed to have been dead about six days, a man identified by his registration certificate as Earl Bovand, aged about 32 or 33, was found dead in a car parked on a sideroad eight miles north of Delburne, 98 miles northeast of Calgary, early Wednesday evening.

Police found the floor boards of the car ripped up and the exhaust tied up so that the fumes came into the car. Dr. C. Earn found death was due to carbon monoxide poisoning.

The car was discovered by two members of a road gang, Tommy Jackson and Neil Longard, parked in bush along the side road, and a few yards off the main north-south highway.

In Bovand's pockets were found $50 in cash, his registration card and a bank book which showed a balance of $50. The registration card and the bank book both bore the address "General Delivery, Calgary," but Calgary Royal Canadian Mounted Police were unable to find trace of his accounts.

From his appearance police believe he was a travelling salesman with no permanent address. Constable Murphy, R.C.M.P., at Trochu, and Dr. Earn are investigating and an inquest is planned. The body was brought to Delburne.

Named Director

Dr. S. W. Frith, 10711 81 avenue, was re-elected director of the Canadian Guernsey Breeders' Association, representing the three prairie provinces, as the result of a mailed vote, it was announced from the association's head office in Moncton, N.B. Dr. Frith, who begins his fourth term in this office, will attend the annual meeting of the association at Toronto in February, 1942.

The sixteenth census of the United States, in 1940, showed the nation with a population of 131,409,881.

Canada Solves Major Problems High Altitude Flying

Air Medical Director Reports Success With Oxygen At 30,000 Feet

By J. A. McCOOK

OTTAWA, Oct. 31.—(CP)—Canadian officials, noting the statement of a United States scientist that solution of aviation medicine problems might determine the outcome of the war, said that Empire experts working in Canada had already overcome major difficulties in high-altitude, high-speed flying.

In a recent address, Dr. John F. Fulton of Yale University spoke of the need of dealing with several problems in aviation including high altitude cold, the "bends" and acceleration of blood circulation.

Ottawa officials said that the progress of science in dealing with such problems had been outlined in detail by Air Commodore R. W. Ryan, head of the Royal Canadian Air Force medical services, in testimony before a sub-group of the House of Commons committee on war expenditures.

Air Commodore Ryan said the major problem in modern military flying was oxygen supply for men in machines with a ceiling of 40,000 feet.

"A pilot does not require careful watching in the air at 30,000 feet. The airgunner is the man who requires to move about the machine a lot and therefore he is expending energy and therefore he requires a better supply of oxygen.

Air Commodore Ryan said air force experts worked in close association with the Canadian National Research Council and the National Research Council of the United States.

WHERE MIKE FREEZES

"We have succeeded, we think, in producing an ideal mask and the ideal oxygen supply," Air Commodore Ryan said. The difficulty with the oxygen mask is to incorporate a microphone into it, through which the pilot and other members of the crew can speak and pick up messages from the ground and other machines. The great problem as far as that was concerned was the freezing of the microphone at 30,000 feet.

"We have tested the microphone and the mask at 35,000 and 40,000 feet and at a temperature of minus 60 degrees Fahrenheit, and we have found it is going to be satisfactory."

Air Commodore Ryan said the amount of oxygen required at 15,000 feet was small compared to that needed at 35,000 feet. Members of the air crew had to regulate the flow and this distracted their attention from the work on hand.

"So we had to get the work done quickly and develop an automatic flow regulator which we have now produced," Air Commodore Ryan said. "That means that as the machine climbs higher the flow increases automatically."

ALTITUDES AND COLD

Study had been conducted on the effect on high altitudes and extreme cold on the efficiency of men in airplanes. "By practical experiment we gradually found the answer and through means of properly heated aircraft, on which we are working now, and properly heated clothing with the right texture, we think we have, if we have not increased the efficiency, at any rate prevented the deterioration of it at high altitudes."

Scientists had found the "bends" suffered by pilots at high altitude due to the release of bubbles of nitrogen in the tissues from the blood could be overcome to a certain extent by having members of the plane crew breathe oxygen on the ground for half an hour before going in the air, at the same time doing exercise.

Air Commodore Ryan said the main wish was low blood pressure in keeping with health under ordinary circumstances, was the first to be air sick and the first to show a tendency to "blacking out" at high speeds.

Women Urged To Ensure Defence Of Rural Homes

To ensure the safeguarding and defence of rural homes and the preservation of tradition and custom which have been the force of the French-Canadian family, farm women must be intelligent and able collaborators for their husbands, competent teachers for their children, and women who love the things of the home. Miss Eveline LeBlanc stated at the Thursday afternoon session of the 11th biennial congress of the French-Canadian Association, meeting in the Memorial hall.

Miss LeBlanc, who is attached to the consumers section of the federal department of agriculture, was presented, in Sept. 1940, with the decoration of "Commandeur du Merite agricole", following 25 years's service to provincial and federal agriculture departments.

STUDY GROUPS ADVOCATED

Miss LeBlanc emphasized the great importance of establishing study groups for women in rural districts. Motherd should study the problems of caring for and educating children, young girls should study how best to equip themselves, and both groups should study every phase of their great task as rural women.

"Farm women should interest themselves advantageously in their homes, make rural life attractive, and love and make loved, the life in the country, and organize as remunerative an economic life as possible," she said.

DUTY TOWARD CHILDREN

Country women more than ever she declared, should realize that they have need of others as others have need of them, and for this reason, they should unite and accomplish their social work to fight against egoism, individualism, and prejudice which might halt the progress and advancement of rural families.

"Farm women have the duty of instructing their children," Miss LeBlanc said, "in the best methods of farm life. They must make them love the farm, and ensure that the men remain on the farms."

She stressed the need for formation of study groups among farm women to ameliorate trying conditions, and urged the young girls to form study groups to enlarge their interests and amuse themselves "sanely".

MANITOBA METHODS

Rev. A. D'Eschambault of St Boniface, president of the Adult Education Society in Manitoba, and representative of the French-Manitoba Education Association, outlined the methods of adult education employed in Manitoba, as a guide to such similar groups as may be formed among French-Canadians in Alberta.

"Times change quickly," he said, "and there is need for collaboration in study so that the changes may be met, and efforts unified." He told of a French public library which has been established with an enrollment of 200 members, and stated that educational pamphlets are provided for study groups through French-Canadian rural districts of the province.

Instruction in home economics for young girls and in farming and other related industries for young men are provided by the education association in Manitoba, he said.

CO-OPERATION PROMISED

Father D'Eschambault stated that additional co-operation had been promised by Donald Cameron of the extension department of the University of Alberta and that a one hour program would be presented in French each week from CKUA, the University radio station.

Resolutions of loyalty to the Governor-General as representative of King George VI, and to His Holiness Pope Pius XII were unanimously approved at the closing session, as well as to the Conseil for France.

By resolution, local farm committees will be asked to obtain details of lands for sale or lease and advise the A.C.F.A., so that they in turn may advise French-Canadians desirous of obtaining land.

Request for three more bilingual agriculturalists in the provincial government staff will be made.

New Army Class At Trade School

New class of soldiers taking trade school courses at the Dominion-Provincial Youth Training Centre, Jasper avenue and 114 street, commenced Thursday, according to Lt.-Col. Allan H. Elliott, officer commanding No. 13A District Depot.

There are 45 men in the new class, all of whom have been enlisted in this area and have been carrying out preliminary army training at the Prince of Wales Armory pending commencement of trade classes.

The group of men who have been taking these courses for the last three months have now completed their work and will be posted either to advanced training centres or to units.

The army trade schools supply technical training to selected men who have not previously had such instruction. In view of the need of a large number of technically-trained men, there are many opportunities now available for those desiring to fit themselves for greatest possible service in the army and for post-war rehabilitation.

Threshing Again Delayed By Snow In Peace River

After 10 days of almost ideal threshing weather, snow fell in the Peace River territory Monday and Tuesday of this week, temporarily halting operations according to the Northern Alberta Railways' crop report of conditions as at Oct. 29.

In the territory west of McLennan, approximately 55 per cent of the threshing is completed, and east to McLennan to this city and on the Lac La Biche subdivision, threshing is now 85 per cent completed. Yields in many cases are better than expected.

V

There are two bilingual officials at present.

STUDY COURSE

It was agreed that an immediate study would be undertaken of questions of agriculture and colonization, in order to strengthen the older established districts, and to create new ones, and as soon as possible, the local committees will be advised of the suitable steps to be taken in the study.

The provincial and federal governments will be asked to supply oats in country districts where a shortage exists.

To conclude the conference a banquet was held on Thursday evening in the Corona hotel.

Farm Judges To Go To Toronto

The four teams representing this province in the national judging competitions, opening at Toronto next Monday, Nov. 3, will leave here Friday night for the Ontario capital.

The teams, which won their places following elimination tests held in various parts of the province and in finals held at the University of Alberta farm, are as follows:

Junior beef cattle judging, Ray Ritenoy and Robert Lewis, North Edmonton Junior Beef Calf Club; dairy cattle judging, Dina Perry and Eleanor Mullis, Lethbridge; grain judging, William Cole and Calvin McGhee, Drumheller; swine judging, Robert and Evelyn Dunbar, Calmar.

R. M. Putnam, director of extension service, provincial agriculture department, will accompany the teams east.

Prior to their departure, members of the four teams will be guests at a dinner at the King Edward hotel being given by the North West Line Elevator companies.

Hon. D. Bruce MacMillan, minister of agriculture, and J. R. Sweeney, deputy minister, have been invited to attend.

The Vatican, at Rome, contains several thousand rooms, and is the world's largest residence.

Hospital Probe Is Given Study

Consideration is being given by the provincial health department to the nature and extent of the judicial inquiry into the Drumheller municipal hospital, its operation and administration, it was learned Thursday.

It is expected that an order-in-council will be passed appointing a district or supreme court judge to carry on the probe.

At the request of the Drumheller miners' union, Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross, minister of health, announced that a judicial inquiry would be held, following a dispute between hospital authorities and the miners regarding hospitalization rates.

MOVE TO QUIETLY THROTTLE NAZIS

America Seeks To Corner World's Critical Materials

Economic War Against Axis Nations Pressed Without Declaration

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—(BUP)—American government officials have quietly begun an all-out effort to corner the world supply of critical materials that otherwise might be available to the Axis.

In that effort no declaration by congress is necessary, because it is economic warfare. Generalissimo of American forces is Vice-President Henry A. Wallace, chairman of the Economic Defence Board. Milo Perkins, executive director, is his chief of staff.

The type of war the board is waging is not spectacular. There is no drama involved when the government signs an agreement with Brazil to buy its entire surplus of it vitally necessary materials, or with Madagascar to purchase graphite and mica.

TELLING EFFECT

But those directing the economic war believe it can have just as telling effect on the outcome of the military conflict as a bomb dropped on a railroad terminal, or a torpedo which blows up an enemy cruiser.

The ultimate objective of the economic war is to force the Nazi military machine to rely on inferior substitutes against superior weapons produced by Britain, her allies and the United States with the genuine materials.

Translated into practical objectives, what the economic army hopes to accomplish is to have a German submarine put in to its home port some day and discover there is no fuel left.

It hopes that some day the Luftwaffe will discover it cannot send aloft a plane powered by a high speed engine because the nation has run out of castor oil. Hitherto it has no castor beans—raised in Brazil—with which to produce more.

I, hopes that the day will come when Nazi warship builders, lacking some essential such as manganese, nickel, tungsten or vanadium to make standard quality armor plate, will be forced to use inferior armor which will prove vulnerable to high-quality armor-piercing shells.

President Roosevelt set up the economic defence board on July 30. Its members are cabinet officers. When they make a decision they are in position to put it immediately into effect. The firm has been the focal point for lovers of good homes ever since its establishment here in 1912. Satisfied customers have returned time and again for new requirements in the furniture line, through good times and bad.

You may think this is one of the bad times.

Mr. Baltzan thinks that for you, Mr. Mrs. and Miss Customer, the present time is one of the best.

This you may assume by a deposit build-up until the required amount is reached, and the balance spread over a period of 15 months. Not so very difficult, is it?

SYSTEM IN USE

As a matter of fact, according to Mr. Baltzan, just about the same system was being used before the new restrictions were enforced. A sizable down payment, such as one - third cash down, leaves a comparatively small amount to be paid up.

If you buy this dining-room suite now, you'll be doing it in almost the same way you would have done last year.

You may have to save a little more to scrape the one-third payment together . . . but it's going to be so much easier for you to make the monthly payments afterwards, that both ends will meet just the way you want them to.

It is really worth while to study the matter.

Worth . . . while, too, to realize the value of purchasing good furniture while you're at it.

The Crescent is the store where good furniture, reasonably priced, is at hand, for your examination, your approval and your final selection.

HOME IS CASTLE

The firm has taken as its motto "A man's home is his castle." With furniture from the Crescent, every customer becomes a veritable king in his own castle; he becomes monarch of all he surveys, and he knows that when his fellow-monarchs, and his "subjects" pay him a visit, his realm is one of which he may be justly proud.

Slow but healthy growth has marked the development of the Crescent from a modest store at 97 street, to its present imposing premises on 101 street and Jasper avenue.

Extension of credit to persons of moderate income is come looking for on easy-payment plan to aid them in setting up or further equipping a home was one of the first calls

POPULAR DEPARTMENT

One of the most popular departments of the store is the furniture bargain department where customers may purchase at moderate prices, furniture requirements of a high standard in value and appearance.

In addition to furniture needs, the firm has a standing stock of General Electric products, Deforest Crosley radios, Wedgwood dishes and Lane cedar chests. Free storage of furniture, delivery service over long distances, are but two offered conveniences to the Crescent customers.

Crescent Furniture Is Marking 29th Year Of Business In Edmonton

Interested in buying furniture . . . good furniture from a reliable firm?

Perhaps you're a little worried about how you're going to manage the payments. Maybe the new credit legislation brought down by the federal government has you in a "stew" regarding making ends meet.

Forget your worries. Go ahead with your arrangements.

Harry L. Baltzan, president and general manager of the Crescent Furniture Ltd. doesn't believe there are any grounds for your worries about how to pay for that new stove, that new chesterfield suite, or rug, or any of your furniture needs.

Mr. Baltzan is in a position to know.

His company, the Crescent Furniture Ltd., this week is celebrating its 29th anniversary of service to citizens of Edmonton and district. As a matter of fact, according to Mr. Baltzan, just about the same system was being used before the new restrictions were enforced. A sizable down payment, such as one - third cash down, leaves a comparatively small amount to be paid up.

If you buy this dining-room suite now, you'll be doing it in almost the same way you would have done last year.

You may have to save a little more to scrape the one-third payment together . . . but it's going to be so much easier for you to make the monthly payments afterwards, that both ends will meet just the way you want them to.

It is really worth while to study the matter.

Worth . . . while, too, to realize the value of purchasing good furniture while you're at it.

The Crescent is the store where good furniture, reasonably priced, is at hand, for your examination, your approval and your final selection.

HOME IS CASTLE

The firm has taken as its motto "A man's home is his castle." With furniture from the Crescent, every customer becomes a veritable king in his own castle; he becomes monarch of all he surveys, and he knows that when his fellow-monarchs, and his "subjects" pay him a visit, his realm is one of which he may be justly proud.

Slow but healthy growth has marked the development of the Crescent from a modest store at 97 street, to its present imposing premises on 101 Street and Jasper avenue.

Extension of credit to persons of moderate income is come looking for on easy-payment plan to aid them in setting up or further equipping a home was one of the first calls

POPULAR DEPARTMENT

One of the most popular departments of the store is the furniture bargain department where customers may purchase at moderate prices, furniture requirements of a high standard in value and appearance.

In addition to furniture needs, the firm has a standing stock of General Electric products, Deforest Crosley radios, Wedgwood dishes and Lane cedar chests. Free storage of furniture, delivery service over long distances, are but two offered conveniences to the Crescent customers.

Planning Need For Employment Wallace States

WINNIPEG, Oct. 31.—(CP)—Dr. R. C. Wallace of Kingston, Ont., principal of Queen's University, said in an address here Thursday that in the post-war period the necessity of insuring full employment may lead to much greater planning by governments with more control and restrictions.

Speaking to the Winnipeg Board of Trade, Dr. Wallace said the "first productive thing in a country is full employment," and that an essential condition of full employment in Canada is a system of freer trade in the world.

It might be possible, he said, for Canada and Great Britain and the United States to force the rest of the world into a system of freer trade.

MUST BE SECONDARY

Any consideration of post-war problems must be secondary to the immediate task of winning the war, but in the post-war period unemployment must be avoided for all people in Canada who are able to work. He said the Dominion government had taken a constructive step in providing for maintenance allowances for men discharged from services, to enable them to take vocational training.

Some methods suggested by Dr. Wallace to alleviate post-war unemployment were thorough constructive projects such as provision of additional housing to replace where it is needed, construction of schools, establishment of forestry camps for young men where they could find employment until they were absorbed back into general industry, and conservation projects.

CONSTRUCTIVE ENTERPRISES

He urged that all types of constructive enterprises of this kind be analyzed and put in order of priority. Some would have to be undertaken by government enterprise while private enterprise could play a large task in carrying out others.

"The time is coming when we will have to treat our natural resources as carefully as a good farmer treats his soil," Dr. Wallace said, adding that more thought should be given to establishment of permanent settlements in some of the mining areas which would be capable of carrying on when mines are worked out.

The important enterprise of market farming, initiated by the Manitoba government in an area around The Pas might serve as an example of what could be done in other parts of Canada in developing fur breeding animals, he said.

Nazi Populace Is Worried By Two-Front War

By GLADYS ARNOLD

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(CP)—War on two fronts has the people of Germany worried. This is the information brought back from Berlin by Virginia Lane, one of 12 members of the American embassy staff there who arrived back in America this week.

"But," she cautioned when talking to The Canadian Press, "one must not be deceived about German morale."

From her observations Miss Lane said she did not think there was any danger of the Germans "cracking up from within." They were thoroughly convinced their only hope was in a German victory and even those who don't like Hitler know the hopelessness of revolt.

"THOROUGHLY POLICED"

"The country is far too thoroughly organized and policed for revolt to succeed," she said. "German morale is low but it has always been low since I went there in 1938. It simply fluctuates on different low levels and the people have become accustomed to it.

"There's not much joy or enthusiasm left in Germany."

When Miss Lane went to Berlin food supplies already were restricted. This reporter saw her in Paris boarding a train for Berlin, her suitcases full of coffee, chocolate bars and such. But, she said, food conditions for the German masses are much worse now.

"I spent most of my salary supplementing my ration with food we Americans brought in from Hungary and other places," she explained. "But there again, the Germans have become accustomed to their present-day diet."

"BITTER BLOW"

"To the average German the rapid fall of France was a surprise and the declaration of war against Russia was unexpected and bitter blow," added Miss Lane. "The war on two fronts has the populace worried."

War prisoners, Polish, Czech and French, were to be seen at work all over Germany in fields and factories. Neither were they treated severe measures would be taken if people talked with them or attempted to be friendly.

Some British and Canadian prisoners were at liberty in Berlin proper, she said, but they must report regularly to the police. Among them were some of the Canadians from the Zamzam, an Egyptian boat torpedoed with a number of French-Canadian members of the priesthood aboard.

Western Airmen Given Citations

By LOUIS HUNTER

LONDON, Oct. 31.—(CP)—Squadron leaders Andrew William Fletcher of Lethbridge, Alta., and Robert Alexander Barton of Kamloops, B.C., two Canadian aces in the R.A.F. Mediterranean service, have been awarded bars to their distinguished flying crosses, it was announced last night.

(This dispatch was the first public word that the two western Canadians aviators had been promoted to the rank of squadron leader. One year ago it was announced they had been awarded the D.F.C. Fletcher's coming Oct. 21, 1940, and Barton's Oct. 17, 1940. Fletcher's father lives at Lethbridge and Barton's father at Penticton, B.C.)

Last night's announcement said Fletcher, aged 26, led a detachment of Beaufighters and Beaufort bombers destroying or damaging over a 10-day period a total of 91 enemy aircraft. In the words of the official citation, the squadron's relentless action crippled enemy air activity and prevented any strong attacks against convoys.

Barton, 25-year-old airman who had destroyed four enemy aircraft over the United Kingdom when he won the D.F.C. a year ago, has accounted for four during service at Malta and his personal total now stands at 11.

The citations paid tribute to the courage and leadership of both men.

Peak Egg Prices Due About Nov. 8

OTTAWA, Oct. 31.—(CP)—A spokesman for the poultry branch of the agriculture department said Thursday night it is anticipated the peak egg price of the year will be reached not later than Nov. 8 and after that increased supplies should bring about a price reduction.

This official said he does not anticipate any action to set a maximum selling price for eggs. It was more likely, he said, that any piggybacking of feed would come into effect when increased production brings about reduced prices and the domestic price is inclined to drop below that set in the egg contract with the United Kingdom.

The British contract calls for payment of about 3212 cents a dozen for winter eggs and about 30½ cents a dozen in the spring.

Dogs Are Shot

CHATHAM, Ont., Oct. 31 (CP)—Six St. Bernard dogs that fatally injured five-year-old Ward Blanchworth, were shot Thursday. Ottawa Will Pay On Mixed Car Lots

OTTAWA, Oct. 31.—(CP)—The government's new freight assistance policy under which the dominion pays the entire freight rate on feed grains and millfeeds from the Head of the Lakes eastward, applies to mixed cars originating in western Canada, the agriculture department announced Thursday night.

Under the original arrangement, now rescinded, under which the government paid only one-third of the freight rates, mixed cars were not eligible for assistance.

"Such assistance now is permitted (on mixed cars) because it is recognized that there exist many points served from western Canada, where it is only practical to make shipments in the form of mixed carloads to distribution points," the department said in a statement.

The freight assistance policy affects western wheat, oats, barley, rye, No. 1 and No. 2 feed screenings, wheat bran, shorts and middlings.

Italians Publish Camouflage Hints

LONDON, Oct. 31 (CP)—Italians are producing historical monuments to order, judging by published handbooks of air raid precautions in that country which have reached Britain.

Here are some camouflage hints they contain:

Line of power cable pylons can be made to resemble the ruined arches of a Roman aqueduct. A small reservoir can look like a country church, complete with campanile and "bells" visible from the air. An oil storage tank can appear to be a villa in Italian style with shuttered windows.

Reserves Decision

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 31—(AP)—A federal judge reserved decision on a suit brought by Jorge Garza Flores, a prisoner, to enjoin the jailer against halting daily excursions through the city, which had been permitted. The prisoner contended that withdrawal of the privilege would interfere with his constitutional liberties because, he claimed, needed his attention.

Many Hogs Killed In North Peace

FAIRVIEW.—How many hogs destined for overseas consumption have been killed by bears in the north Peace River area is not known but in the Last Lake district, north of Fairview, black bears and a cinnamon bear are taking a heavy toll on hogs, sheep and calves. Bears have killed four or five pigs owned by Charlie Utas of Last Lake. Aubrey Coates claims to have seen the cinnamon bear, judged to weigh 1,000 pounds.

The outlaw has made a large circle in his plundering travels. After killing sheep and yearling calves, the bear was trailed by men on horseback, with cocked rifles, until he passed into a haven of muskeg. Stories of depredations of these bears have been pouring into Bob Hills, hotelman at Brownvale, and Louie Fox, storekeeper at Whitelaw.

French-Canadians Make Valuable Contribution To West's Development

That the French-Canadians can set an example to other western Canadians in their love of their homes and their desire to guarantee appreciated centres of home and family life, was the voiced opinion of His Honor Lieut.-Gov. J. C. Bowen on Thursday evening, when he addressed a dinner meeting of the French-Canadian Association of Alberta. Attended by 250 guests, the dinner marked the close of the two-day biennial congress held in Edmonton by the A.C.F.A.

I Saw Today

R. M. PUTNAM

entering the Legislative buildings in the early hours of the business day;

AND

Bill Nixon turning north on 103 street from Jasper; Everett Etheridge stepping briskly along the main stem; Mrs. A. L. McKay going west along Jasper; Wally Pollock conversing with friends at Jasper and 107 street; Bruce Hay discussing plans for Hallowe'en with a young friend on 105 street; Vic Horner crossing Jasper; Tom Tasker heading rapidly north on the east side of 103 street; Harry Gibney passing pleasantries with a friend at Jasper and 103 street.

V

B. E. Chaplin, 9748 105 street, reports to city police his gray 1938 Ford sedan was stolen from the rear of the Dreamland theatre, Jasper avenue and 97 street, Thursday night. The car bears Alberta license 33-732.

As the first pioneers of this continent from the other side of the Atlantic, the French began by making definite home centres and improving them, His Honor stated. "They have made us realize more and more the necessity of developing Canada, and of developing a real home spirit," he asserted.

The speaker praised the large amount of handicraft work being done by the French-Canadians, and the endeavor to make the community and the family self-contained.

GREAT CONTRIBUTION

Again, as pioneers of western Canada, the French-Canadian have made a great contribution to the west and to the Dominion as a whole, he said.

"We hope that we will soon emerge from the conflict of war and, having freed Europe from the cruel subjugation by dictators and tyrants, we will then be able to turn again to our own national interests, and emphasize more fully the value of the home, the church, and the community centre," His Honor said.

"No one who knows and understands the French Canadians doubts for an instant their loyalty and devotion to Canada and its Sovereign," he stated.

WARNS OF NAZI AIMS

The speaker was introduced by the chairman, Dr. L. O. Beauchemin, of Calgary, president of the A.C.F.A. Other speakers were His Worship Mayor John W. Fry, His Excellency Archbishop J. H. MacDonald, Senator the Honorable Dr. Arsilide Blais, Dr. Robert Newton, president of the University of Alberta; Miss E. LeBlanc, of the federal department of agriculture, in Ottawa; J. O. Laforce, C.N.R. colonization agent, and representative of the St. Jean-Baptiste Society.

Engineers See Motion Picture Tacoma Bridge

Using as their theme the moral that "one learns more from failure than from success", about 60 members of the Edmonton branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada, took part in discussion arising out of a showing of a motion picture of the collapse of the Tacoma suspension bridge, at the Macdonald hotel Wednesday night.

The films were taken by the engineering department of the University of Washington and showed the behavior of the bridge from the time its weaknesses were first noticed right up to the time of its final collapse.

DIFFERENCES IN DESIGN

Prof. I. F. Morrison of the university showed slides of other suspension bridges to point out the differences in design of the Tacoma bridge from conventional structures.

The films were loaned to the Institute by the University of Washington and will be shown at meetings of other branches.

Films loaned to the group by the Chrysler Corporation depicting the advance in car design and the revelation of work done in building a new factory for the mass production of tanks, also were shown.

Prof. R. M. Hardy was chairman of the meeting.

The Inquiring Reporter

THE QUESTION

With the sinking of a United States destroyer by the Germans, the Inquiring Reporter today sought opinion on whether this hostile act would result in America's active participation in the fight for democracy.

THE ANSWERS

GEORGE J. BRYAN, barrister: President Roosevelt has stated that the aim of United States foreign policy is "the destruction of the Hitler menace." There has been no change in that policy, and if the destruction of Hitler needs active participation by the United States navy, army and air force there will be that participation.

F. W. DOUGLAS, inspector: Mr. Roosevelt is unwilling to declaration of U.S. foreign policy. Hitlerism must be destroyed. He used to say Hitlerism must be destroyed and that U.S. would give all aid short of war. The latter tag has been dropped from Mr. Roosevelt's speeches, and it would appear that he has ceased to believe that Americans can remain out of the conflict.

VLD. JAMES H. OGILVIE: President Roosevelt may still hesitate, even after this sinking of an American destroyer, to ask for a declaration of war, but he continues firm in his warning to the people of the United States that the real and inescapable end in this war is the destruction of Hitlerism. He has done a marvelous work in leading American public opinion, and, when the time is opportune, will make the decision that will result in open conflict between the U.S. and Germany.

Young Edmonton Warned To Take Care

* * * * * * *

You Tonight: It's Hallowe'en

If you see pink elephants on the street tonight you don't need to worry about what you had for supper. It's probably just the neighbor's youngsters dressed up and ready to go places for the "shell out" in the glamorous clarion of Hallowe'en.

And the neighbor's youngsters (and, incidentally, your own) had better stop warily tonight, city police warn. All constables, assisted by a number of special policemen, will be on duty tonight to catch young folk if they attempt to do property damage or commit other acts of vandalism. Court prosecutions will follow in these cases.

Young Edmonton should be able to enjoy itself without causing damage, police warn the merrymakers.

EVIL SPIRITS

Hallowe'en before the Christian era was not a night for merrymaking. It was, in legend, the night on which ghosts, witches and evil spirits roamed the earth. In Britain huge bonfires were lighted to frighten away the spirits. The ancient Druids believed that Samain, lord of death, assembled all the wicked souls, condemned for the previous 12 months, to dwell in the bodies of animals.

The Romans celebrated the festival of Pomona, the goddess of fruit, about Nov. 1, and thus came the association of apples, pumpkins and other fruits with Hallowe'en.

HALLOWEEN GAMES

There has been no dearth of Hallowe'en games throughout the ages.

A favorite game was "Snapdragon", in which one had to thrust his hand in a broad shallow basin of blazing brandy and snatch from the blue flames a raisin, fig or some trophy which would predict his future.

GLAMOUR GAME

"Wedding Rings" was another glamor game for a girl. The rings were suspended by hairs and held inside the tumbler. If her pulses vibrated sufficiently, the fairy chime of wedding bells rang out. Otherwise, it was a dark outlook for maidens of that generation.

Games in which one's future could be foretold were—and still are — very popular. "Floating Needles" in which needles bearing the names of two people in the room were placed in a basin of water, was another favorite. If the needles were attracted to each other it meant the happy union of the persons whose names they bore.

URGENT need of more and more metal for manufacture of ships, munitions and other essential war supplies, may result in "junked car" repositories, the presumed last resting places of many automobiles, yielding considerable iron and steel. In piles of scrap the length and breadth of the Dominion there are frames and other parts of numerous motor vehicles. At a time when shortages are being felt in every machinery field employing metal, any appreciable percentage of this waste would be well worth recovery.

Already efforts are being made to salvage every possible piece of metal. In England the fences around Buckingham Palace are being stripped and elsewhere church bells are being melted down to supply needed materials. Therefore, it will cause little surprise to learn that the old automobile "junk" is to be resurrected and put to good use. This trend is not only evident in this country, but in other lands.

It is estimated that hundreds of thousands of tons of steel scrap and much tonnage in other materials required in war industries, could be obtained from the outworn cars and car frames in the dumpgrounds from the Atlantic to the Pacific. In the United States a strong

Winnipeg Chief Of Police Denies Ald. Parsons' Jay-Walking Charge

Commenting on a charge made by Ald. Sidney Parsons on his return from Winnipeg the Sask that Winnipeg has a real jay-walking problem and pedestrians must have a never-wearying foot there," Chief Constable George Smith of Winnipeg, in a statement issued here Friday, stated that "the number of persons killed on Winnipeg streets last year was the lowest in the history of this city, with 29,000 population in North America.

"In recent years," stated Smith, "we have provided annual traffic drives to reduce accidents, especially as the police and public of Winnipeg must have somethings of it." Chief Smith said that he did not want a jay-walking by-law such as is in force in Edmonton. Accidents in Winnipeg happen out in the open streets, not into downtown streets. He remarked that Winnipeg once had a jay-walking by-law but the city soon found it out. "The police department has more work to do than just watch traffic," he said.

Tight Little Island's Spirit

Loud in their praises of the morale and spirit of the Canadian troops in Britain and of the people of the "tight little island," three original members of the Edmonton Regiment, who left here about two years ago, returned to the city Thursday evening.

They were Lieut. R. H. Sansbridge of this city, Cpl. J. A. R. Devine, of Dunmill, in the Peace River area, near Hythe, and Pte. N. Page of Wetaskiwin. Cpl. Devine served in "C" company and Pte. Page with "A" company.

All three returned as casualties, Lieut. Sansbridge was severely injured in a motorcycle crash. It is expected that after recuperation and recovery from his injuries, he will rejoin his regiment.

The trans-Atlantic trip was probably one of the fastest recorded since the start of this war, according to documents brought back by the three, they left Britain on Oct. 14 and arrived here Oct. 30—just 16 days later.

"You can say that the Canadian troops are in the best of health and that their morale is of the highest," said Cpl. Devine. He lauded the spirit of the troops and of the British people. He declared that last winter the boys had got a little fed up with the blackouts and the long, dreary nights, but the recent activities and the prospect of more had pepped them up considerably.

Boys of the Edmonton Regiment, said the returning soldiers, were in fine fettle, and were regarded as among the best of a corps of highly-trained, efficient troops, regarded as unsurpassed among all the fighting men of the world.

Turkish Circles Expect Nazi Drive To Middle East

Ankara May Be Forced To Abandon Neutrality Swiss News Agency Says

SOMEWHERE IN EUROPE, Oct. 31.—(CDN)—Turkish circles expect a German drive into the Middle East next spring which may compel Ankara to abandon neutrality and throw in its lot with one of the warring sides, according to a well-informed correspondent in today's National Zeitung

Military observers there, the account declares, believe that Germany is prepared to substitute an attack on the British Isles for a direct assault on the British Empire. Such an attack, they feel, would originate in the effort is being made to collect this plunder along with it, goes the suggestion that the cleaning up of these resting-places for the old guns would improve the appearance of the countryside. Thus the cause is at once utilitarian and esthetic.

The idea seems to be spreading. Because of lack of metal, all automobiles of models manufactured prior to Sept. 1, 1935, will no longer be allowed on French roads unless used as trucks or busses. They must be sold to the government for salvage purposes. Furthermore, it is pointed out, such vehicles, because of years of wear and tear, consume an excessive quantity of fuel and lubricants. So, with eyes in Vanguard countries turning toward old autos, that old machine in which you spent so many happy hours in past years, soon may be part of a tank or a battleship. Who'd have thought it?

It's good to see the soldiers of the new army carrying on the traditional care-free outlook of Private Tommy Atkins of the Great War. In the early days we were given to understand that this was a war in which "strictly business" would be the order of the day, with none of the "Old Bill" type of fun. But the spirit of the soldier remains the same and the boys still have a rare good sense of humor as this story, received from a friend overseas, by Lt.-Col. E. Brown, M.M., E.D., area commandant, will prove.

A Salvation Army officer was pressed to hear a company of soldiers on the march singing the old song, "Count Your Blessings, Name Them One By One." He thought "How religious our soldiers are becoming." But as they drew nearer, he found that the men were employing the tune of the hymn, the words had been altered and the refrain, after each declaration, check them one by one and it will surprise you how you've been done."

ety, in Montreal, and Dr. Beauchemin.

Warning of the Nazi ambitions of conquest beyond Europe, Senator Dilain stated that everything possible must be done by Canada and by Canadians to ensure a victory for Britain. He made reference to a book published in 1935 by a German, who stated that after the conquest of British Canada would be taken over, since it is now a "waste", and "is the country we want, with its endless resources".

"British victory is essential to the continuation of the Canadian way of life," he said, "and we must do all we can to defend our homes and institutions, and show valiant heroism through sacrifice and complete assurance to Britain."

CITY'S APPRECIATION

Mayor Fry declared that the city has received "all co-operation from the French-Canadians, many of whom have pioneered in the city and have left the mark of their handiwork." He vouched to the full appreciation of the contribution made by the French-Canadians to the Edmonton districts, "this land of unity with the richest, most fertile soil, this land of abundance."

President of the University of Alberta Dr. Robert Newton, lots of the mutual interest of the university and the French-Canadians in the furtherance of education, and praised the "very evident success in promoting the culture and understanding" between the two races. He spoke of the constant interest in French problems of the pioneering days of the province.

Rev. Father Lacombe also attended the dinner meeting.

CHRISTIAN LIFE

His Grace, Archbishop MacDonald paid tribute to the success of the congress which was attended by representatives of Catholic parishes in the city and in the country districts.

"The Christian life should be deemed to encompass all of the here and hereafter, unsatisfactory conditions in country districts," he said. "Instruction, both necessary and useful, must be continued, and the work of the rural schools must go hand in hand with the necessary organization for abundant and useful life."

He stressed the necessity for co-operative study of problems whenever they be social, economical, religious. "Whatever issues arise among our neighbors, we must try to promote co-operation and find a common attitude in useful, loyal fraternity and understanding."

SUCCESSFUL CONGRESS

Miss LeBlanc stated that the congress in Edmonton was one of the best she ever attended, stating, "and I have attended a great many during the past years." She appealed to the farmers as an arms of aid, working through agriculture to victory.

"Canada, Great Britain, the troops in Europe, as well as civilization and world liberty has need of you who are the workers of farms. Victory by agriculture is a most worthwhile task," she said.

Agriculture is the only school in which the teachers are the parents of those receiving instruction, said Mr. Lefevre, adding that the true love of the land and of the children makes the instruction doubly effective.

He spoke of the very mixed population of Canada and the virtue of all the peoples working together happily in contrast to the division which has always existed in Europe, which is about the same size as Canada.

Besides the head table were His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, His Worship Mayor Fry and Mrs. Fry, His Excellency Archbishop Macdonald, Senator the Hon. Dr. A. Beaubien, His Excellency Bishop D. Lunghi, O.M.I., of Grouard, Alberta, Dr. and Mrs. L. O. Beauchemin, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Newton, Dr. W. A. R. Kerr, Miss Lefevre, Rev. A. Mrs. Brown states entry was made to her rooms by a room key she had left under the mat in front of the door. A nurse's black leather bag, graduation pin, a ladies' watch, man's overcast and pullover sweater, a ladies' sweater and $1.50 in cash from a purse and

Visitor Tells Present Work Of Hahassah

Because she had a special message to deliver to 8,000 Hadassah members in 212 chapters across Canada, Mrs. A. Raginsky, national president of that Jewish organization, made use of her husband's tenth anniversary present to finance a trip across Canada, which will raise the sum of a quarter of a million dollars to further Hadassah work.

THREE OBJECTIVES

The Canadian Hadassah now has three main war objectives. These are the donation of two large mobile kitchens for Britain, capable of feeding 250 bombed civilians at a time; the furnishing of a nursing ward for bombed children in memory of Sara Delano Roosevelt; and creating of a fund for an airplane ambulance in Palestine.

The group finances regular evacuation of children from strained parts of the world to Palestine; a convalescent home in Palestine which has been turned over to the soldiers since the outbreak of war; and the group's agricultural school in that country.

Hadassah has already sent two ambulances to England, and furnished a 30 bed ward at Taplow hospital and has raised enough money to build a soldier's hospital in Palestine, which is already under construction.

Some 3,000 pairs of socks were sent to minesweepers last year, and 500 other pairs sent along with a sum of money to the Navy League.

Speaking of the high standard of efficient self protection in Palestine, Mrs. Raginsky stated that every woman was mobilized, and there wasn't a Jewish woman in the country who couldn't handle a gun as well as a man.

"All of our work is for the British Empire," declares Mrs. Raginsky. "Every dollar raised by Hadassah is in defence of the Empire."

There is no doubt whatsoever in Mrs. Raginsky's mind but what she will return to her Montreal home with the full sum of a quarter of a million dollars guaranteed.

MESSAGE TO HADASSAH

The message that Mrs. Raginsky has for the Canadian Jewish women is simple and sincere. She states that there is no sacrifice too great for the Hadassah women to make. The Jews in Palestine are dependent on the Hadassah. The British and the Jewish people are fighting side by side and defending the Empire at every strategic point.

Paying a great compliment to the work of the Edmonton Hadassah, Mrs. Raginsky said that she was very pleased at the work they were doing. She described them as a "beautiful star in the makeup here".

Mrs. Raginsky has visited a large number of Hadassah chapters in mid-western and western Canada. She is visting in Edmonton, en route to her home in Montreal. On arriving in Edmonton on Thursday evening, she received a telegram to the effect that her son was in very poor health. Owing to that fact, Mrs. Raginsky may have to cancel the rest of her tour, including some of her speaking engagements in this city.

Planned for the pleasure of Mrs. Raginsky have been several attractive affairs. She is scheduled to address a general meeting this afternoon in Talmud Horah Hall. Speaking again on Friday evening, Mrs. Raginsky was to address members of the Junior Hadassah at the home of Mrs. B. Wainberg. On Saturday afternoon, a luncheon is planned, when Mrs. Raginsky will again be honored guest. Later Mrs. E. Wershof will entertain Mrs. Raginsky and the executive at tea in her home.

While in Edmonton, Mrs. Raginsky is a guest at the Macdonald hotel—S. C. W.

Miss Stephens Is Bride Of Late Autumn

With her father performing the service, and in the setting of the living room of her parental home against a background of shaggy mauve and white chrysanthemums, Marguerite, daughter of Rev. J. T. and Mrs. Stephens of Edmonton, became the bride on Thursday evening, of Mr. Alex Miller Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Stewart, also of this city.

Given in marriage by her brother, Rev. E. Stephens of Cadomin, the bride was a charming figure in a simply tailored afternoon dress of soft blue crepe. A row of small covered buttons marked the front of her frock from dainty white peter pan collar to girdled waist. Bracelet length sleeves and a flared skirt were interesting details of her dress with which she wore smart black accessories and a shoulder corsage of Talisman roses.

Miss Mary Myers was the bride's only attendant. She chose a silk afternoon dress of delicate rose tone, gathered at the waist, with soft shirring at the yoke of the bodice and a flared skirt. Complementing her outfit she wore black accessories, Talisman roses en corsage.

Mr. G. Tretty supported the bridegroom as best man.

Mrs. Stephens chose for her daughter's wedding a silk frock of slate blue, with a touch of color at the pointed neckline. Her dress featured three-quarter sleeves and a flared skirt. Her accessories were black and she wore red roses en corsage.

Mrs. Stewart was in a smart wool frock in rosewood tone, with a corsage of golden baby mums pinned at the shoulder.

RECEPTION

At the reception that followed the ceremony, the bride's table was centred with a wedding cake and made colorful with a low bowl of mauve and white mums.

Following the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart left for a short wedding trip to Cadomin. On return they will take up residence in this city. To travel, the bride changed to a rose wool dress, a topcoat of tielle blue with grey fur collar and black accessories.

Hearty Sunday Dinner Can Be Kind To Budget

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

Sweet potatoes are very plentiful now and inexpensive in the diet for their A and other vitamins. Pork is relatively cheap, though still higher than at the time last year. Although fresh vegetable prices will probably be higher than last year, vegetables are on the relatively inexpensive list and of course canned fruit is very good. We'll probably have more canned green peas and tomatoes available than last year as the time draws near for serving turkey and so try to combine these inexpensive foods in your Sunday menu.

STUFFED PORK CHOPS
Serves 6

Six rib pork chops, tablespoons fat, apple stuffing, salt, cayenne pepper, flour.

Wipe chops with damp cloth and season with salt and pepper. Stuff chops lightly with apple stuffing and fasten together with toothpicks. Season and roll in flour. Brown in fat. Add a little water, cover and cook slowly on top of stove or bake in moderate oven (350°F.) for 1½ hours. Remove toothpicks and serve with gravy.

APPLE STUFFING
Makes 4 cups

One-fourth cup diced salt pork, 2 cups chopped onion, 2 cups chopped celery, 1 cup fine dry bread crumbs, ½ cup chopped parsley, 6 tart apples, diced, salt, pepper.

Fry pork until crisp, remove pork. Cook onion, celery and parsley in fat until tender. Add bread crumbs, pork, apples and seasonings. Mix thoroughly and use to stuff pork chops, chicken, duck, goose, turkey or rabbit. Sufficient for 6 pounds of meat.

SWEET POTATO PUDDING
Serves 4 or 6

Quickest sweet potato pudding I've ever made. I use raw sweet potatoes, grated, and cream the mixture with sugar, flour, eggs, spices, milk and butter.

Boil sweet potatoes, peel and mash while hot. Allow to cool. Cream butter and brown sugar. Add potatoes and mix well. Add nutmeg, cinnamon, ginger, salt and vanilla. Beat in eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add milk and mix well. Pour into greased baking dish. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) for 1 hour. Serve hot with whipped cream or plain cream.

Sunday's Menu

BREAKFAST—Prunes and shredded wheat with cream, broiled bacon, toast, coffee.

DINNER—Stuffed pork chops, sweet potato pudding, buttered peas, cabbage salad with apple slices, bread and butter, milk.

SUPPER—Cream soup, cold meat, baked potatoes, pickles, bread and butter, cake, milk, tea.

Recipes tested by Betty Barclay, Recipe Kitchen, The Bulletin.

Dorothy Dix Says:

Dorothy Dix

Mary and John have broken up the little home they established five years ago with such high hopes of happiness. They have sold their furniture and are getting one of the fashionable new streamlined divorces in which the party of the first part and the party of the second part pay each other extravagant compliments, and say they will always be friends, and wish each other every good luck, but the they have found living together just impossible. Incompatibility of temperament, you know. Perpetual quarrels.

No one can understand why a marriage that started out so auspiciously should so soon come to grief. For John is a fine, moral young man and Mary is such a peach of a girl that it seems incredible that they couldn't make a go of it. Besides, John's chief asset in business is his gift as a mixer and his ability to handle people with kid gloves, while Mary could win a popularity contest every day of the week and everybody who knows her praises her disposition as much as they do her complexion.

And there you are, and there are all the millions of other Johns and Marys who make marriage a 40 years' war and who go to prove that any sane person can exploit.

It takes two to make a quarrel, and every discernment could be stopped in its beginning by a smile, a joke, a tender word. Every subject about which there is a difference of opinion could be taboo. Husbands and wives could treat each other with courtesy and consideration. The domestic millennium would be ushered in if only married couples would make the same effort to get along with each other as they do with their bosses.

Dear Miss Dix—I have been going with a girl for about two years who appeals to me in every way and whom I would like to marry if I were certain that she is in love with me. Our quarrels are negligible. We have similar tastes, education and background, but my feelings toward her puzzle me. If love is a weak-kneed, dry-throated, heart-pounding-out-of-control girl complex, I haven't got it. But I do have a feeling of deep satisfaction, a desire to be with a person, sharing things together and enjoying things together. You get the idea, I hope? Is that enough to base a marriage on?

KEITH

Answer—I say it is. It is the kind of love that lasts. Romance wears off in the long years of married life, but companionship and mutual interests remain. I suspect that you are mistaking romance for love. Romance is a delusion based on the desire for kissing, but love is something far deeper and more enduring. Are you sure that you are not confusing love with passion, and jealousy with love? Think it over, and if you are sure, go ahead and plan for a happy married life.

Minute Make-Ups

Now, Mary, I want to see a clear, clean face when you come to supper. Scrub face and throat briskly, but gently, with warm water and soap. Rinse in warm water, then in cool water. Pat dry with a towel, use a towel for a minute. Pat on a very little astringent and cool the skin. Apply powder, lipstick, all over. Your skin will quickly regain its freshness.

Sonnysayings

No, no, John! I telled ya it don't work a little, an it hit. But you started too late an' went too far. Brother will show ya.

Recommend Girls For Lumber Camps

LONDON, Oct. — (CP) — A report from the select committee on national expenditures recommends that training camps be established for girls to replace the men in lumber camps so that the latter may be released for more productive work.

Points For Parents

By EDYTH THOMAS WALLACE

Mother: "You'll have to decide which you'd rather spend your money for—this little doll or the movie Saturday. You haven't enough for both."

Mother: "If your room was tidy enough to eat in, I'd have you have your meals in it. But it isn't, so you'll eat in the other one."

An allowance is of little value unless it is an aid in teaching the boy or girl how to save his money.

War Education Program Is Requested

OTTAWA, Oct. 31—(CP)—A group of 80 women newspaper, magazine and radio writers concluding a week-end conference on war topics asked the government to launch an educational program designed to aid women in meeting wartime economic conditions.

Such a program, it was suggested, should include information on nutrition, health, expenditures on clothing and household financing.

The women writers also supported a resolution requesting that as soon as the new prices policy of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board is prepared, or other changes are made affecting consumers, a system should be set up by the department of public information to supply writers with detailed reports.

Sessions of the two-day conference were devoted to round-table discussions in which representatives of various government departments answered questions concerned with the part Canadian women are taking and will take in the future in Canada's war effort.

Your Figure Madame!—By Ida Jean Kain

Janelou Buck is a very pretty example of the dancer with pretty legs. Here she demonstrates one of her favorite leg exercises. Flex the knee as high as possible, as shown on the left, then swivel around to the side and straighten it out, as on the right.

Toe dancers have learned better, but the average woman toeing along with her calf muscles contracted so much of the time that by the age of 35 or 40 her legs are not only out of shape but are not much good to her.

The toe dancers have learned it pays to balance muscular contraction with stretching and they make a habit of finishing the practice routines with a few tap steps, or leg shaking or stretching exercises. Your career probably doesn't demand that you be on your toes much of the time. Merely shifting to low-heeled shoes for heavy work or long hours of standing and walking will benefit your legs.

But, even so, you need a few specific leg stretchers. They will make your legs feel good at the time and will help you to keep the nice, smoothly tapered line. Certainly, you can count on them to prevent the ugly, jutting line at the back of the leg which comes from over-contraction. Do your legwork without stockings or shoes.

Here is an exercise you will like. Stand facing the wall, forehead against wall, your body in a straight line. Then, without removing the head from the wall or lifting the heels off the floor, slide feet backward. As you do so, keep the back perfectly straight.

Reverse your position and you can also stretch the front muscles of legs and toes. Now, stand with back to wall, back of head against it. Then, with toes pointed straight ahead, walk forward without curling toes or removing the head from the wall. While doing this exercise and the preceding one, do not try to move the legs more than four short steps.

Just as a test of flexibility, sit on the floor with legs straight out in front, and see whether you can press the backs of the knees flat against the floor. If you can't, you're already beginning to creak!

Make a daily practice of sitting in that position until you are able to flatten the backs of the knees against the floor. From there, you can go on to a more effective leg stretcher. Holding the legs straight, lean forward until you are able to grasp the toes in the hands and pull them toward you, hard, without letting knees come off the floor. Relax, rest and pull again. But take it easy. Don't try to do more than you are equal to doing.

That program won't take more than five minutes a day and it is well worth five times that to any woman who wears high-heeled shoes.

Your Figure Expert,
IDA JEAN KAIN.

You Can Teach Yourself To Play The Piano Well

Music An Entree To Social Life

Brilliant company, and you one of the stars! Playing the piano is one of the best ways for a girl to make friends, often nicer friends.

And they can't guess how you learned to play—perhaps teaching yourself the quick way, with a keyboard chart! It's true; with such a chart you can learn to play delightfully, without spending many laborious hours learning notes and keys.

The chart exactly matches the main part of the keyboard and you stand it up just behind the real piano keys as our sketch shows. With each key is given its music staff note and a number; so, in starting to play, you have only to glance from paper note and key to real key below.

You're soon well enough acquainted with keys and notes to play tunes—and here's a shortcut way to learn popular ones. Play the melody line with the right hand, a few simple harmonizing chords with the left.

Our 24-page instruction book including the keyboard chart, gives basic chords you can quickly learn. Explains elements of music; has three charming pieces.

Many people think that because a steamship operates on the Great Lakes it is not as large as ocean-going ships. But this can be quite wrong. Some lake steamships are much larger than many ocean vessels. The Seeandsee, a lake steamship, has a 160-foot beam, and the only ocean-going steamships with beams that long are the Normandie and Queen Mary. So it looks like the lake steamships are not such an insignificant lot after all.

Looking them Over

By JACK KELLY

LAST night the Edmonton Junior Football League put a formal and fitting end to the most successful season it has ever enjoyed when the South Side Spitfires and Edmonton Athletic Club players were guests of the league at a banquet in the King Edward hotel with the dynamic President Art Carlson presiding as chairman of the evening. Following a few impromptu speeches, all players were guests at The Barn for an evening of dancing.

All of which is very jolly but hardly the stuff from which to hammer out a column. However out of the talk between officials before and during the dinner, a new and important football idea sprung.

The proposal is to form a Western Junior Conference of three provincial branches—Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba. This conference will not be a league, but rather a governing body for junior football in the west. It will be self-sufficient and ask no help from any other football union or organization.

Two Headaches Produced It

TWO headaches produced this proposal—rules and the pushing around of the pending western junior playoffs are getting from the Western Conference. As a result of the Bombers and Roughriders showing no consideration to the Saskatchewan and Manitoba junior champions in the matter of playoff dates, it will be November 15 before the western final can be played here—a date so late that it carries grave financial worries for the boys here.

The matter of rules is simply a unanimous dissatisfaction in Alberta with the C.R.U. code which the western juniors must play as a result of western senior clubs shooting for the rich plum of an east-west final. The east has made the price of a slice of this plum an agreement to play only the rules approved by the Canadian Rugby Union which it dominates.

There seems little hope of western juniors being allowed to experiment toward more exciting rules so long as they stay under the wing of the Western Conference—a spot they decided to stay on at the annual meeting of the Alberta Union in Calgary last week.

Western Juniors Can Stand Alone

STANDING on their own feet and depending on no other guarantees than their own drawing power, western juniors will go farther and with more financial success than if they timidly hold on to the hand of the senior western league.

In fact, most of the football officials at last night's dinner seemed firmly convinced that the Western Conference is just about washed up. Edmonton and Calgary are so thoroughly satisfied with the junior game that it will take a lot of persuasion to get either of them back into the financial nightmare of the Western Conference. Vancouver got little but grief this season from the senior game, although bad weather was a major factor against the Grizzlies.

It is presumptuous of course to suggest what another city should do, but, judging from the experience of Calgary and Edmonton, both Winnipeg and Regina would probably find a good city junior league and western playdowns just as thrilling and far less worry during these war years than struggling to keep a senior circuit operating.

Community League Hockey Meeting

With a banner season in prospect, the sport committee of the Federation of Community Leagues will hold its annual meeting in the Y.M.C.A. at 8:00 p.m. on Monday, Nov. 3, to organize for hockey.

All interested parties are asked to make a special effort to be on hand.

Passport Puzzle Surrounds Exodus Of Patrick's Rovers

WINNIPEG, Oct. 31.—(CP)—The Winnipeg Tribune says in a news page story the "hockey passport controversy, which has raged across Canada since mid-September, took on a new light Thursday when it was learned that 14 members and the coach of the New York Rovers, an amateur club billed to play in the Eastern United States League, crossed the United States border at Noyes Wednesday night."

The players are from Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

"About half of the players are believed to be in the age group, 21 to 25, which must obtain special permission from the divisional war services board before leaving the country," said the newspaper. "There was no explanation available as to how those of military age gained permission . . .

Both the Manitoba and Saskatchewan war services board announced earlier that they would refuse passport permission to hockey players of military age seeking to perform this season in the United States.

"In response to a query, the passport office at Ottawa said today the rule was that no passport would be issued without a letter of recommendation from the local chairman of the war services board," the newspaper said.

A spokesman for the Manitoba War Service Board said that no change in the passport situation had been made by the board. The spokesman added that the Manitoba Board has not given passport authority to any hockey players of military age and said any information concerning passports should come from Federal officials at Ottawa.

Zivic Battles Robinson Tonight

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. — (AP) — Just about a year ago Fritzie Zivic came off the leaky roof circuit and did the impossible by punching the great Henry Armstrong to the end of the line.

The night he did it, a skinny kid from Harlem made his professional debut. He was one of the four-round preliminaries.

Tonight in Madison Square Garden, the Kid Has Been from Pittsburgh, a bony beanpole with a bolt like a bomb, topped off a year of mauling along the victory trail by banging with Zivic in a 10-rounder that probably will get the Witmer a shot at Red Cochrane and the world welterweight championship.

Philadelphia Buys Ossie Asmundson

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.— (AP)—Philadelphia Rockets of the American Hockey League, announced Thursday the purchase of Ossie Asmundson, defenceman from Hershey, in preparation for their opening game next Sunday night against Western Conference champions.

Asmundson, a fantastic puck-passer while Coaching the three-year Bruins' defence, was sought by Hershey Bears, the New York Rangers and Chicago Black Hawks, all of whom placed waivers on the Winnipeg boy in 1939. He was sent to the Hershey Cubs in 1940.

Leafs Loan Four To Boss Dutton

TORONTO, Oct. 31.—(CP)—Four players were loaned to New York Americans by Toronto today as the Maple Leaf's management cleared the decks for the opening action in the national hockey league warfare that starts here Saturday night. Five other players were sent to clubs in the American league.

Players sent to Red Dutton's club are: Gus Marker, veteran right winger; Red Heron, who plays either left wing or centre; Peanuts Callaher, chunky right winger who played at home with the Americans last season and Nick Knott, lanky left winger who was a member of Oshawa Junior champions two years ago.

Coach Clarence "Hap" Day of the Leafs and the contracts of the four for this season had been turned over to Dutton and it was up to the American manager to reach an agreement with the players.

Harry Frost, right winger on trial here from Hershey, was sent back to that club along with two rookie defencemen Frankie Eddolls and Bob Goldham. Either of the rookies is subject to immediate recall.

A third rookie defenceman, Ernie Dickens was shipped to Providence while Normie Mann, who has been commuting between the Leafs and various American league clubs for the past few years, goes to Pittsburgh.

Finances Offer Biggest Hurdle

By ART COTTRELL

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

LACOMBE, Oct. 31.—With every club hard hit by enlistment of players for active service with Canada's armed forces, prospects for the Central Alberta Hockey League functioning again this season are doubtful at this stage but President R. J. Lewis of Lacombe is hopeful that the situation will clarify enough in the near future to permit a meeting being called.

Lacombe Athletics have lost speedy Jimmy Miles to the Nanaimo Clippers, Bill Torey, who led the Central League in scoring for the past two seasons, is now in the army, and Len Roberts is on service with the R.C.A.F.

Despite these player losses, it is felt that Lacombe could put a good team on the ice if the old problem—the matter of finances—could be hurdled. The club finished in the red last season, and that is holding up matters whenever hockey is discussed here.

FOUR IMPS WITH R.C.A.F.

Stettler Imperials have also lost several good men, but as the club finished in better shape financially than many of the other aggregations in the league, prospects are said to be much better. Fans are already beginning to talk hockey, so it is pretty safe to assume that the Imperials will be starters in any league which is organized.

Those Stettler would have to replace include Ralph Rudd, star goalie; Raymond Wilson, Doug Sharpe and Clarence Gilbert, all of whom are with the R.C.A.F. Clarence Blaney is also with the armed forces and Glen Harrison's bad knee will keep him out of the game. Duke Seaby, mainstay of the team for many years, is out of town, but rumor has it that the Duke could be brought back to don an Imperial uniform.

COLONELS ALSO HIT

Wetaskiwin's Colonels won the league championship last season and "it said there is enough enthusiasm left over in that city to enter another team this year. This team too, has been hard hit by departures, as Sunny Baker, crack goaltender; Bill McMurdo and Bert Brown are with the R.C.A.F. Doug Grant has left for the coast and the veteran Paul Kolomatuk, one of the cleanest players to tie on a skate in any man's league, may take a season's rest. Little Mike Petasky, whose dazzling speed has racked away many a game for the Colonels, may also be absent from the Colonel's line-up if they go on the ice again. The second Freddy Kirstein Ross Mellharney and several other hustling youngsters, however, would be available as the basis for a team.

CAMROSE SAID READY

Camrose Maroons have already held a club meeting and are said to be ready to get on the ice. Although the club was not the financial success it was expected to be last year, the officials feel, an identical effort in '42 would.

Replacements would be necessary to fill the places of Art Sturtz, Bruno Leidy, forward, and big Max Katz, whose booming voice will long be remembered around the circuit as both are in the air force. Goalie Constable is not likely to be back and Bob David, one of the best prospects in last year's league, is with the Red Deer aggregation in the senior league. However, on the brighter side of the picture, Sid Wenton, stalwart defence man, is still in town; Reub Soule could be brought back from Prince Albert and the bustling Art Spencer might also be persuaded to come in from Lloydminster.

FINANCES BIG QUESTION

In the case of most clubs, the whole matter of whether the league will function again boils down to a matter of finances. Hockey sticks, pads and other equipment doesn't grow on trees or come free in the mail, and for this reason many of the executives are now burning the midnight oil in an effort to solve their problems. Rumbles and rumors are heard from time to time, and out of it all the dyed-in-the-wool fans are hoping there will be heard the shrill blast of the referee's whistle to start the boys down the ice once more.

Pro Ball Players Receive Summons For Union Enquiry

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 31. — (AP) — Eight professional baseball players were summoned Thursday before a circuit court grand jury investigating the financial affairs of local 42 of the American Federation of Labor and Hod Carriers', Building and Common Laborers' union.

Acting circuit attorney Henry G. Morris said the grand jury wanted to ascertain the circumstances under which some of the players received work permits from the union and got jobs at the government small arms ammunition plant this fall as laborers at high hourly wages.

Joe Grace, outfielder of St. Louis Browns, first to go before the jury, said he failed to obtain a work permit and did not get a job, Morris reported.

Other players summoned were Johnny Lindell, of the Browns; Johnny Hopp, Enos Slaughter, Ernie White, Morton Cooper and Walker Cooper, of St. Louis Cardinals and Andy Gilsoop, of Kansas City Blues.

Theodore Niachwitz, international representative of the union, said Slaughter and several other players were discharged from jobs at the plant Tuesday.

46,500 Will See Pro Grid Clash

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—(AP)—The 46th renewal Sunday of the National Football League's oldest rivalry—between Green Bay's Packers and the big, bad Chicago Bears —has everything except a park big enough to hold all the fans who want to watch it.

The clamor for tickets is unprecedented. All the seats in Wrigley field have been sold and 3,000 standing room ducats were gobbled up in a few hours. The throng attracted by this pivotal battle will number 46,500, breaking all past records for a pro gaggle in the mid-west.

The Bears and Packers have met 45 times. Bears have whipped the Packers 23 times in the past and lost 16. Four games ended in ties.

Durocher Fancies Ex-Coast Manager

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Leo Durocher, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, said Thursday he was making "unqualified recommendations" to general manager Larry MacPhail that Bill Sweeney, deposed manager of the Hollywood club, be employed by the Dodger organization.

"We need men like Sweeney in our outfit," Durocher told newsmen. "I don't know that we'll get him, but we are going to try. I cannot understand why Hollywood dropped him because he is universally recognized as one of the smartest men in baseball and an outstanding manager."

Durocher did not say what post might be in line for Sweeney but intimated he might be offered the managership of Brooklyn's Montreal club in the international league.

Aggies Interfac Champs; Med-Pharm-Dents Second

University of Alberta's Interfaculty Football League ended Thursday afternoon, with Med-Pharm-Dents getting a narrow 1-0 win over the Engineers. Aggies, coached by George Stuart, are the league champions by virtue of their three-game undefeated and unscored on record.

Thursday' result puts the Meds in second place, drops the Engineer's to the last rung and leaves the Arts-Comm-Law club in third spot.

Bob Macbeth capable end for the medical men, rouged Edwards early in the second quarter to get the sole tally of the game.

The Meds made things tough for their campus foes, right from the start, driving the Engineers back to their one-yard line by the first quarter charge. Only some last stand line work and smart kicking by Ted Jennings saved the forty-beer men from major point losses.

Darkness in the last minutes of the game made for fumbles by both clubs. Engineers, in the last play of the game, on a pass from Jack Setters, just about broke away for a touchdown.

Ossie Geehan's kicking, smart play calling by Nels Bradley, Ian Younger's tackling, a clever reverse run by Bob Reikie and some stalwart line bolstering by Jim Hemstock featured the Meds' share of the game.

Setters, Jennings, Edwards, Fenske, Bob Buckley and Dick Hislop were mainstays for the Engineers.

A post-league game between the champion Aggies and the second-place Med-Pharm-Dents is planned for Saturday afternoon at the Varsity grid.

Halt Beaten By Market Wise

BALTIMORE, Oct. 31.—(AP)—A record-shattering performance by an unsung, Canadian owned horse, Market Wise's close victory over Haltal in the Pimlico Special and Exterminator's appearance in the role of guest star provided a series of thrills Thursday for 15,000 racing fans.

Filisteo, a seven-year-old bay horse from Argentina, set a world's record for two miles and 70 yards in winning the second running of the $5,000-added Exterminator handicap and almost stole the show from the match race between Market Wise and Haltal in the fifth running of the Special.

Jockey Al Shelhamer guided Filisteo, owned by H. C. Hatch, of Toronto, over the gruelling route in three minutes, 29 and 4-5 seconds to clip two full seconds off the former world mark of 3:32 4-5 set by Rangower at Detroit in 1935.

CLOSE FINISH

Market Wise, $1,000 bargain colt owned by Lou Tufano, Jamaica, N.Y., contractor, came from behind to nip Royce Martin's Haltal by a head in the $10,000 winner-take-all special, which developed into a hammer and tongs affair.

But the biggest hand of the day went to Mrs. Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Exterminator, the gallant 20-year-old veteran for which the Exterminator handicap was named.

He led the field of six to the post with his pony pal, Peanuts, and he responded to the sentimental plaudits of the throng by tossing his head and prancing snappily. On his braided tail were green and orange bows, his old racing colors.

FAVORITE SECOND

Shot Put, Mrs. Marie Evans' route-running star, went postward the favorite in the Exterminator, but was beaten a length and a half by Filisteo, which paid $31.60 for $2 and earned a purse of $4,450. J. C. Vidal's Paul Pry was another two lengths back in third place.

Market Wise ran the mile and three-sixteenths in the creditable time of one minute, 58 and 4-5 seconds, the fastest time for the special since Seabiscuit set a track mark of 1:56 2-5 in 1938.

For Tufano, the victory meant not only the $10,000 purse, but also the $2,500 Maryland Jockey Club gold cup, while trainer George Washington Carroll was presented with $1,500 and a piece of plate.

Syl Apps Still Good At Sniping

TORONTO, Oct. 31.—(CP)—Before 8,000 fans here last night Maple Leafs' Big Three, Syl Apps, Geedie Drillon and Nick Metz rapped in six goals as the Blues defeated the Whites 9-2 to level the two-game series of intra-club exhibition games at one each. The first game—at Owen Sound Wednesday night—went to the Whites, 6-2.

Apps collected three goals, Nick Metz two and Drillon one. Pousette, O'Flaherty, striving for a regular berth with the club after one season with New York Americans, picked up two of the Blues' tallies and Don Metz accounted for one.

In Memoriam 7

In loving memory of our dearly beloved husband and father, Conrad Ruhl, who departed this life October 31, 1935.

Are a pleasure to recall
He had a kindly word for each,
And died beloved by all
Some day we hope to meet him,
Some day, we know not when,
To clasp his hand in the better land,
Never to part again."

—Sadly missed by your loving wife, Rudolph and Margaret.

Wainwright Man Collapses, Dies

Thought to have been the victim of a heart attack, a man identified as Joseph Clough, 62, of Wainwright, by papers found in his clothing, collapsed and died on the sidewalk of a city street at 6 p.m. Thursday.

Const. E. Forsland responded to a telephone call from the Western Auto Wreckage at 10015 104 avenue where it was said a man had taken sick. On his arrival the constable found a man lying on the sidewalk. A doctor was called but the man was dead when the former arrived.

A registration certificate and discharge papers from the Canadian army after the last war, carried his name. There was also a railway ticket from Edmonton to Wainwright and a parcel check on the victim's person.

The body was removed to the Howard and McBride funeral chapel.

Police are investigating further.

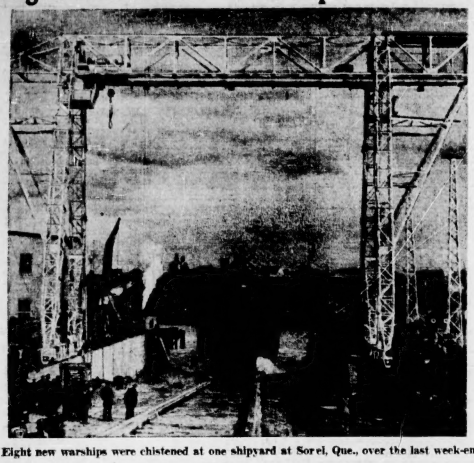
Eight Canadian Warships Launched In One Ceremony . . . . King Inspects U.S. Observers



Eight new warships were chistened at one shipyard at Sorel, Que., over the last week-end. The corvette La Malbaie is pictured, left, sliding down the ways. Three more corvettes and four minesweepers were chistened in rapid succession. H.M.C.S. Brockville, right, was chistened by Mrs. C. G. MacOdrum, wife of the mayor of Brockville, Ont.

These seven new fighting ships, their bows draped with flags and victory "V's", are shown as they awaited chistening at the Sorel shipyards. So that no production time should be lost, these vessels were launched earlier, without ceremony, then christened over the week-end.

King George is shown chatting with officers of the United States army stationed in England as observers with the Royal Air Force during a recent inspection.

Duke Chats With Seamen

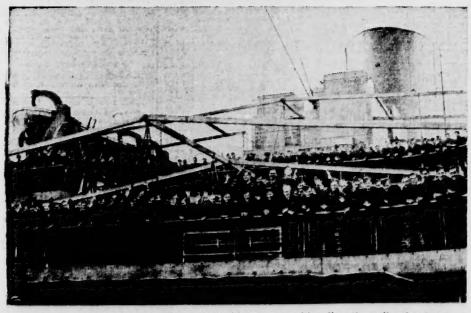
The Duke of Windsor shakes the hand of Seaman William Worthing Green during a brief visit to the British Merchant's Club at the Seaman's Institute in New York. Duchess, left, looks on smiling.

This is Brenda Joyce of the films and if you think any other information is necessary, why don't you go back where you came from?

British Army's Medical Corps In Action

A "casualty" is shown being floated across a river on an improvised raft during the demonstration staged by the Royal Army Medical Corps during manoeuvres in the southeastern command area recently. Buoyancy is given by empty oil cans to which the stretcher is lashed.

Airmen From Canada Overseas



Graduates of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan line the rails of a transport to wave farewell to Canada as they departed from an eastern Canadian port. This contingent has now arrived safely in England to swell the number of Canadian trained forces now defending the island

By Rob Eden

Howeverbids her Eddie use her car. Later she lets stolen jewels in her car and finds them. She is engaged to ROY LAU TON but is becoming interested TOD HAMEL, whom she has met recently. June is convinced Eddie didn't steal the jewels after talking with him at the apartment of his fiancee, DOLLY JARVIS, dance instructor. Tod has taken her from a club dance to talk with Eddie. Tod returns her to the club and Roy, not knowing where she has been, takes her home, where they find all the lights on. Inside they find policemen. June's car has been stolen by masked thieves. Although June fears they were of Mugsy Barker's follower. He forces them to return with him to tell their story to Mugsy. He refuses to believe the story and gives June and Eddie a week to produce the jewels. June returns home, is met by her father who tells her he is taking her and Roy to see the house he plans to buy for them. Next day, while she is out, June gets a call from the district attorney's office. Her father insists upon going with her and is there when the assistant district attorney asks her why she went with her brother to Mugsy's hotel room the night before. June tries to expain without telling the truth. Randolph is furious as they leave the office.

CHAPTER NINETEEN

RANDOLPH'S face was white with anger.

"You know what this means," he said, "I warned you and Irene and your aunt, too, if any of you had anything to do with Eddie that you could pack up and get out. That wasn't just idle talk, June. I meant it. I mean it now."

"You mean—that you're throwing me out in the street, just as you did Eddie?"

GET OUT

"Not exactly throwing you into the street. You may take anything that belongs to you, any of the things you've used. I want you to take them all—everything. I don't want anything around the house to remind me of you."

Tears were streaming down the girl's cheeks as she walked along the corridor and down the steps of the court house. Randolph kept pace with her.

Outside the building, she turned and faced him.

"I'm not crying on my own account, Dad. I want you to know that. I'm not afraid. I'll get along somehow. But what hurts me more than anything, is the way you have failed Eddie. You've treated him with less mercy than you would an office boy in your factory. You have never tried to realize that perhaps you might have been partly to blame for letting him go on and on the way he did, without making a determined effort to stop him."

"He chose his way."

"I thought you might change after he had paid for his forgery, paid in a harder way than you'll ever know, but instead you seem even more bitter.

"Now is the time he needs help, kindness, encouragement. Someone had to give it to him. Since you wouldn't help him, I did, and I'll continue so long as he needs my ... and sympathy."

... babied was his trouble—he was ... child. ... so much when he was a ...

"Mother, mother—"

... a human bein kind, considerate, ... say one word ... I won't let you ... exclaimed, angrily ... her," June ...

TOO LENIENT

"I didn't intend to cr... mother, I merely said ... your spoiled Eddie, been too lenient ... him. After she was gone, he we... on doing just as he pleased. I tried to advise him, but he wouldn't listen to me."

"Maybe you didn't approach him in the right way. Some people you can't drive. You, for instance. And you can't blame your son too much if he has inherited some of your qualities."

"I never was a thief—I never forged anybody's name," Randolph retorted, indignantly.

"No one says you did. I merely said you had tried to drive Eddie, and he wouldn't stand it any more than you will stand for anyone to drive you. Mother managed him beautifully when she was alive. He's not difficult to direct, if you use a little kindness instead of trying to beat him into your way of thinking."

"That chapter is closed. I don't care to discuss it now or any other time. You may take my car home—I'll take a taxi to the plant. But when I get home tonight, I want you to be out of there, do you understand.?"

"If that's all my love and loyalty to you means, I'll be glad to go."

"Loyalty? Do you call it being loyal when you sneak off behind my back to see that—that jailbird!"

"There's no use in arguing further. You've left no doubt about how you feel, and I've told you how I feel. You needn't worry about me begging your forgiveness, either, in order to come back. If I ever return home you will have to do the inviting."

GOOD-BYE

"Good-bye," Randolph said, shortly, and turned and walked swiftly down the street. June looked after him, tears again welling to her eyes. She had genuinely loved her father—she still loved him, but she hated the uncompromising, arbitrary manner in which he tried to run the lives of other people.

June was packing her clothes and all the belongings she had accumulated in her twenty-one years when Mary Randolph came in through the open door of her room.

"What on earth are you doing, child?" she asked. The girl's hair was tousled from her exertions and there were smudges of dust on her face and hands from long unused bags she had dragged down from the attic.

June told her. Her aunt was instantly indignant.

"Why, I never heard of such a thing," she stormed. "I'll call Philip at the plant right away and tell him he can't do this to you."

"Thanks, Aunty, but it's no use. Perhaps it will be better all around if I leave home."

"What in the world will you do? Where can you go? You're not equipped to support yourself."

"I have a small income, remember, from mother's estate. That will feed me if I'm careful. I can take a business course and after that I'll get along swimmingly. Eddie and I can live together, and I can help him as much as I please without being afraid of Dad."

"Your father is being a beast again, just like he was when Eddie needed help. Instead of helping him, he kicked him when he was down." The woman suddenly burst into tears, and June tried to comfort her.

Irene came in curiously, to see what was the matter, and she too broke down when she heard what had happened.

"You shouldn't have been such a little fool, June," she said, when she could control herself. "You knew Dad told us to keep away from Eddie, and yet you deliberately went to him. Now you'll be disinherited, just like he was."

"I'm not worrying about that."

"What will Roy say?"

...OY

... came as a shock to June that ... fiance ... hadn't even thought of her father ... since the row with her ...

"I—I do... about him ... now. I hadn't thought ...

"Maybe he ... want to marry you now."

"You haven't a ve... ...h opinion of him, have you?"

"Well, you couldn't b... much. He has his way to ... him the world, and it seems to me in you've put him under a terrible handicap."

June had closed the last bag and trunk, called Hobson to carry several of the bags to her car.

"I'll let you know where to send the other things," she told her aunt, bringing on a new storm of tears from her and Irene.

"It's so senseless to quarrel with Dad," Irene said.

Hobson interrupted to tell June ... Mr. Pinkert was downstairs a... wanted to see her.

"...h, good!" Irene exclaimed. "Maybe Dad has changed his mind aft... all!"
